

Table of contents

Acknowledgments — vii

List of contributors — xi

Gitte Kristiansen

Introduction. Pluricentricity, language-internal variation and Cognitive Linguistics — 1

Part I: Theoretical perspectives

Peter Auer

Enregistering pluricentric German — 19

Georges Lüdi

Communicative and cognitive dimensions of pluricentric practices in French — 49

Ángel López-García

Linguistic pluricentrism as a neurological problem — 83

Part II: Corpus-based studies

Tom Ruetten, Dirk Speelman, and Dirk Geeraerts

Lexical variation in aggregate perspective — 103

Dirk De Hertog, Kris Heylen, and Dirk Speelman

Stable Lexical Marker Analysis: A corpus-based identification of lexical variation — 127

Augusto Soares da Silva

The pluricentricity of Portuguese: A sociolectometrical approach to divergence between European and Brazilian Portuguese — 143

Part III: Experimental and attitudinal studies

Edgar W. Schneider

Global diffusion, regional attraction, local roots? Sociocognitive perspectives on the pluricentricity of English — 191

Dirk Speelman, Leen Impe, and Dirk Geeraerts

Phonetic distance and intelligibility in Dutch — 227

Catrin Norrby and Heinz L. Kretzenbacher

National variation of address in pluricentric languages: The examples of Swedish and German — 243

Subject index — 271

Author index — 275