CONTENTS

1. Introduction: Social Psychology, International Affairs, and Public Policy
   STUART OSKAMP 7

PART I: WAR-PEACE ISSUES 19

2. Toward the Cause of Peace: What Can Psychology Contribute?
   B. F. SKINNER 21
3. Behavior Analysis, the Nuclear Arms Race, and the Peace Movement
   JOHN A. NEVIN 27
4. Ten Psychological Contributions to the Prevention of Nuclear War
   RALPH K. WHITE 45
5. International Crisis Management in the Nuclear Age
   IRVING L. JANIS 63
6. Mediation of International Conflict
   PETER J. CARNEVALE 87
7. Attitudes Toward Nuclear Armament Policies: An Example of Social Research in Behalf of Social Advocacy
   SEYMOUR FESHBACH, ELIZABETH KANDEL, and FRANK HAIST 107
8. The Media and Nuclear War: Fallout from TV's The Day After
   STUART OSKAMP, JEANNE C. KING, SHAWN M. BURN, ALISON M. KONRAD, JOHN A. POLLARD, and MICHAEL A. WHITE 127

PART II: RELATED INTERNATIONAL AND NATIONAL ISSUES 159

9. The Social Psychology of U.S. Presidential Effectiveness
   LAWRENCE S. WRIGHTSMAN 161
10. Social Psychological Aspects of Political Terrorism
    ARIEL MERARI and NEHEMIA FRIEDLAND 185
11. Implications of Post-Traumatic Stress for Social Psychology
    LAURA M. DAVIDSON and ANDREW BAUM 207

12. The Cognitive Side of Conflict: From Theory to Resolution of Policy Disputes
KENNETH R. HAMMOND and JANET GRASSIA 233

13. Technology Assessment and Congressional Use of Social Psychology: Making Complexity Understandable
LEONARD SAXE and DENISE DOUGHERTY 255

14. Influencing Social Policy in the Public Interest
PAUL R. KIMMEL 281

Author Index 299

Subject Index 306

About the Authors 310