

Table of Contents

Preface	11
Abbreviations	12
A Note on the Translations used in this Book	14

Introduction. The Historiography of the Hasmonean Period: The Influence of Biblical Models and of Modern Debates on the Creation of a Jewish State

1. A brief overview of one hundred years of historical scholarship on the Hasmonean period (ca. 1850–1950)	19
2. The reconquest of the promised land: A ubiquitous paradigm	38
3. Dissident voices	48
4. Reflexions on some of the methodological problems raised by biblical models	52
4.1 The borders of the promised land	53
4.2 The question of the perennality of the commandment to conquer the promised land	57
4.3 The “conversion” of non-Jews	58
5. “Religion” and “politics”: two problematic categories in the historiography of the Hasmonean period	59
6. The structure of this book and its guiding principles	63

Part I. Did the Hasmoneans Seek to Reconquer the Promised Land or Restore Judea? The Account of the Hasmonean Wars in 1 Maccabees

1. The First Book of Maccabees: general presentation	65
1.1 The contents of the book	65
1.2 The language, context, date and compositional unity of the book	67
1.3 Parallel accounts: The Second Book of Maccabees and the work of Josephus	72
1.3.1 The Second Book of Maccabees	72
1.3.2 The Judean (or Jewish) War and Jewish Antiquities by Flavius Josephus	78

2. The land: an objective conspicuous by its absence	80
2.1 The conspicuous absence of the issue of the land of Israel from The First Book of Maccabees	80
2.2 The land in 2 Maccabees and in Josephus' rewriting of 1 Maccabees	86
2.3 The territorial stakes of the Maccabean wars	91
3. The Hasmonean dynasty's biblical models	94
3.1 A few preliminary reflections on the concept of "Bible" in the second century B.C.E.	94
3.2 Biblical models and the literary structure of 1 Maccabees	99
3.3 Joshua, a model for the Hasmoneans?	102
3.4 A sacerdotal family seeking to legitimate its position as a royal dynasty	109
4. The wars against non-Judean peoples: Judeans versus Canaanites?	118
4.1 The prescriptions concerning the Canaanites in the Bible	118
Scenario No 1: the expulsion of the Canaanites	118
Scenario No 2: herem warfare or the extermination of the Canaanites	119
Scenario No 3: slavery or "forced labour"	122
4.2 The war practices of Judas Maccabeus and his brothers: an attempt to put Deuteronomy 20 into practice?	126
4.2.1 The influence of Deuteronomy on 1 Maccabees	128
4.2.2 The laws of warfare in Deuteronomy 20 and 1 Maccabees	132
4.2.3 The wars waged by Judas, Jonathan and Simon, according to 2 Maccabees and Flavius Josephus	144
4.3 Do we encounter a "Canaanite" in a Hasmonean context? (1 Macc 9:37)	149
5. Did the Hasmoneans attempt to purify the land?	153
6. The "inheritance of our fathers" (1 Macc 15:33–35)	161
6.1 The territorial dispute between the Seleucids and the Hasmoneans, from Judas to Simon	163
6.2 The biblical background of the phrase "the inheritance of our fathers"	171
6.3 The parallels between the discourses of the Seleucids and Simon in 1 Maccabees	174
6.4 Understanding Simon's reply in the context of the territorial conflicts of the Hellenistic era	177
7. The development of a historico-juridical conception of Israel's right of ownership over the land	185
7.1 The original allotment of the land according to the Book of Jubilees and the Genesis Apocryphon	185

The connections between the Book of Jubilees and the Genesis Apocryphon	192
The Hellenistic context of the juridical or historico-juridical discourse used to establish the right of ownership	193
7.2 The posterity of this historico-juridical argument in Jewish thought	203

Part II. The Era of the Conquests: Rise and Fall of the Hasmonean State

1. The inescapable Flavius Josephus: was his perspective anti-Hasmonean?	214
1.1 Strabo	219
1.2 Nicolaus of Damascus	227
1.3 The Judean (or Idumean) origins of some of Josephus' criticism of the Hasmoneans	232
1.4 Josephus' point of view	236
2. The different stages, the nature, and the motivations of the Hasmonean territorial expansion	240
2.1 John Hyrcanus	240
The motivations of John Hyrcanus	254
2.2 Aristobulus I	260
2.3 Alexander Jannaeus	267
103–92 B.C.E.	267
92–83 B.C.E.	270
83–76 B.C.E.	272
2.4 Jannaeus' successors to the throne until 63 B.C.E.	279
3. The "forced conversions"	283
3.1 The Idumeans	290
3.1.1 Josephus' account of the Judaization of the Idumeans	290
3.1.2 Ptolemy the Historian's account of the Idumeans	294
3.1.3 Strabo's account of the Idumeans	296
3.1.4 Was the Judaization of the Idumeans an innovation on the biblical models?	298
3.2 The Itureans	305
3.3 The questions raised by the case of Pella	309
3.4 Summary	314
3.5 The presentation of the imposition of Judean laws on the conquered territories as a Seleucid idea in 1 Maccabees 10	316
4. The use of mercenaries	324
4.1 A sign of the Hellenization of the Hasmoneans	324
4.2 The Judaization of non-Judean populations versus the use of foreign mercenaries	329

4.3 The mercenaries and the Judean opposition to the Hasmoneans	331
4.4 The Hasmoneans' accumulation of riches	335

Part III. Polemic, Memory, Forgetting

1. The polemic against the Hasmoneans	342
1.1 The critique of the Hasmoneans in the Qumran manuscripts	342
1.1.1 The first two generations: Mattathias and his sons	343
1.1.2 John Hyrcanus	345
4Q379: Was John Hyrcanus the "man of Belial"?	345
4QTestimonia, a threefold critique of John Hyrcanus	354
The Essenes and prophecy	359
A list of false prophets (4Q339)	360
The fallibility of the prophet Joshua according to 4Q522	362
The rules of war in the Temple Scroll	366
1.1.3 Alexander Jannaeus	372
The times of wickedness in 4Q390	372
The Pesher on Isaiah (a) (4Q161)	372
4Q448: for or against king Jonathan?	375
The Pesher on Nahum	383
The Pesher on Habakkuk	386
Is there a condemnation of the Hasmonean wars in 4Q471a?	388
1.2 The critique of the Hasmoneans in the Psalms of Solomon	390
2. Memory and Forgetting: the Hasmonean expansion in rabbinic literature	395
2.1 The memory of the Hasmonean victories in rabbinic literature	396
2.1.1 The memory of these victories in Megillat Ta'anit	396
2.1.2 Beyond Megillat Ta'anit : the memory of the wars of liberation in the rest of rabbinic literature	402
2.1.3 On some of the echoes of Jannaeus' conquests in the Babylonian Talmud	404
2.1.4 The implications of John Hyrcanus' gift of prophecy	407
2.2 The critique of the accumulation of powers and the attempt to control the exercise of royal power	408
2.2.1 The critique of the accumulation of powers	408
2.2.2 The attempt to control the king's exercise of power	416
2.3 The ambiguity of the Babylonian Talmud	416
2.3.1 The presence of anti-Hasmonean revisions in the Babylonian Talmud	417
The chronology of Seder 'Olam in b. Avodah Zarah 8b–9a	418
Alexander Jannaeus as the murderer of the Sages	420

The account of the fratricidal conflict between Aristobulus II and Hyrcanus II in b. Menahot 64b	421
2.3.2 The Hasmonean dynasty versus the Davidic dynasty in the Babylonian Talmud	423
Conclusion	427
 Excursus: Eupolemus' perspective on the reigns of David and Solomon ...	434
List of the documents describing the diplomatic relations between the Hasmoneans and Rome before 63 B.C.E.	439
Chronology	440
Maps	445
Bibliography	447
Index of ancient sources	479