

CONTENTS

PREFACE	ix
I. THE SITUATION
Literary Interpretation: Semantics or Pragmatics?
ONE. PARTIAL ART—TOTAL INTERPRETATION	3
Henry James, The Figure in the Carpet , in Place of an Introduction, 3
The Lingering of the Classical Norm of Interpretation, 10
TWO. THE RUDIMENTS OF A THEORY OF AESTHETIC RESPONSE	20
The Reader-Oriented Perspective and Traditional Objections, 20	Readers and the Concept of the Implied Reader, 27
Psychoanalytical Theories of Literary Response, 38
II. THE REALITY OF FICTION
A Functionalist Model of the Literary Text
THREE. THE REPERTOIRE	53
Starting Point, 53	Speech-Act Theory, 54
The Referential System of the Repertoire, 68	Situation-Building, 62
FOUR. STRATEGIES	86
The Task of the Strategies, 86	The Old Answer: Deviation, 87
Foreground and Background, 92	The Structure of Theme and Horizon, 96
Variations of the Theme-and-Horizon Structure, 99
III. PHENOMENOLOGY OF READING
The Processing of the Literary Text
FIVE. GRASPING A TEXT	107
Interplay between Text and Reader, 107	The Wandering Viewpoint, 108
Correlatives Produced by the Wandering Viewpoint, 118
Consistency-Building as a Basis for Involvement in the Text as an Event, 118
The Text as an Event, 125	Involvement as a Condition of Experience, 129

viii Contents

SIX.	PASSIVE SYNTHESSES IN THE READING PROCESS	135
	Mental Images as a Basic Feature of Ideation, 135
	Mental Images Affecting the Reader, 139
	Building Images, 140
	What Happens to the Reader? 152
IV. INTERACTION BETWEEN TEXT AND READER
The Communicatory Structure of the Literary Text
SEVEN.	ASYMMETRY BETWEEN TEXT AND READER	163
	Conditions of Interaction, 163
	Ingarden's Concept of Indeterminacy, 170
EIGHT.	HOW ACTS OF CONSTITUTION ARE STIMULATED	180
	Introduction, 180
	The Blank as a Potential Connection, 182
	The Functional Structure of the Blanks, 195
	Historical Differences in the Structure of Interaction, 203
	Negation, 212
	Negativity, 225
	NAME AND TITLE INDEX	233
	SUBJECT INDEX	236