

CONTENTS

Preface to the Series	vii
Preface to the Volume	ix
Florence H. Ridley, Introduction: The Challenge of Teaching The Canterbury Tales	xi

PART ONE: MATERIALS Joseph Gibaldi

Editions	3
Introduction	3
Works of Chaucer	3
The Canterbury Tales	8
Dual-Language Editions and Translations	10
Anthologies	12
Required and Recommended Student Readings	15
Aids to Teaching	17
The Instructor's Library	20
Introduction	20
Reference Works	22
Background Studies	24
Critical and Linguistic Studies	28

PART TWO: APPROACHES

Introduction

The Student as Reader of Chaucer

John H. Fisher, Scala Chaucerensis	39
---	----

The Chaucer Course: General Overviews

Thomas J. Garbáty , And Gladly Teche the Tales of Caunterbury	46
Donald R. Howard , The Idea of a Chaucer Course	57
Emerson Brown, Jr. , Diverse Folk Diversely They Teach	63
Mary J. Carruthers , On Making Students Relevant to Chaucer	76

The Chaucer Course: Specific Approaches

Robert M. Jordan , A Rhetorical and Structural Emphasis	81
William Provost , The Boethian Unity of the Tales	89
Terrie Curran , The Cultural Context	97
Thomas W. Ross , An Approach to Teaching Chaucer's Language	105

Survey Courses for Nonmajors

Michael West , Teaching Chaucer in a Historical Survey of British Literature	110
Stephen R. Portch , A New Route Down Pilgrims' Way: Teaching Chaucer to Nonmajors	116
Susan Schibanoff , The Crooked Rib: Women in Medieval Literature	121

Teaching the Backgrounds

D. W. Robertson, Jr. , The Intellectual, Artistic, and Historical Context	129
Ernest N. Kaulbach , The Canterbury Tales in the Tradition of Western Literature: Chaucer as Scholiast and Etymologizer	136
Julia Bolton Holloway , Medieval Pilgrimage	143

Participants in Survey of Chaucer Instructors	149
List of Works Cited	153
Index	169