

Table of contents

Acknowledgements	XI
Acronyms	XIII
Introduction: Dialog theory for critical argumentation	XV
CHAPTER 1
The place of dialog theory	1
1 The rebirth of dialog theory	2
2 Dialog theory in computing	10
3 Agent communication	15
4 Fundamental concepts of dialog theory	20
5 The critical discussion as a type of dialog	25
6 Plan recognition and deliberation	29
7 The BDI model and the commitment model	34
8 The problem of retraction	36
9 Communication and information	40
10 The future and past of dialog theory	43
CHAPTER 2
The history of dialectic	47
1 Origins of dialectic in ancient philosophy	48
2 The dialectic of Socrates and Plato	51
3 Aristotelian dialectic	56
4 Aristotle's classification of types of dialog	62
5 Medieval dialectic	65
6 Dialectic in modern philosophy	68
7 The re-appearance of dialectic	71
8 Eight characteristics of dialectic	74
9 Hamblin's dialog rules	79
10 Functions of questioning and asserting	82
11 The future of dialectic as a subject	86

CHAPTER 3

Persuasion dialog

89

- 1 Persuasion in rhetoric and dialectic 90
- 2 Characteristics of persuasion dialog 95
- 3 Defeasibility and acceptance 101
- 4 Evidence, testing, and burden of proof 106
- 5 Dialogs, truth and relativism 110
- 6 The charge of pernicious relativism 112
- 7 Judging the maieutic depth of a persuasion dialog 116
- 8 Aiming at the truth 121
- 9 Truth, evidence and acceptance 124
- 10 Conclusions 127

CHAPTER 4

Mutlti-agent dialog systems

131

- 1 Agent communication systems 132
- 2 Speech acts 137
- 3 Interrogative messages in ACL's 140
- 4 Conversation policies 143
- 5 Sincerity conditions 145
- 6 Understanding of messages 148
- 7 Rational effects of a message 151
- 8 Future multi-agent systems and dialog theory 153

CHAPTER 5

Agents in critical argumentation

159

- 1 The case of the critical discussion on euthanasia 160
- 2 Fallacy and deception 164
- 3 Current systems of formal dialectic 167
- 4 Implicit commitment and Gricean implicature 173
- 5 Adding speech acts and agents to formal dialectic 176
- 6 What characteristics of an agent are needed? 180
- 7 Expectations and plausible inference 185
- 8 Plans, strategies and chaining forward 187
- 9 Strategies in formal dialectic 191
- 10 Qualities of character for agents in formal dialectic 200

CHAPTER 6

Dialectical shifts and embeddings	205
1 Dialectical shifts and fallacies	206
2 The problem of shifts and embeddings	212
3 Cases of shifts based on embeddings	216
4 Cases of shifts not based on embeddings	221
5 Argumentation schemes	226
6 Analysis of the cases based on embeddings	230
7 Analysis of the cases not based on embeddings	233
8 Fitting dialogs together at global and local levels	235
9 Metadialogs	239
10 Solving the embedding problem	241

CHAPTER 7

Criticizing a natural language argument	247
1 Explanation, clarification and interpretation	248
2 The three stages of critical assessment	253
3 Plan recognition and incomplete arguments	256
4 New tools for argument diagramming	261
5 The problem of enthymemes	265
6 Three bases for the enthymeme	268
7 Textual interpretation as an abductive process	274
8 Textual interpretation as simulative	277
9 Anticipating an arguer's future moves	281
10 The problem of diffuse dialog	284

Bibliography	289
---------------------	------------

Index	303
--------------	------------