

Future History

Global Fantasies in Seventeenth-Century American and British Writings

Kristina Bross

---

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	ix
Preface	xi
Introduction: “America is as properly East as China ”	1
Chapter 1 “A Universall Monarchy”: Millennialism, Translatio , and the Global Imagination	24
Coda: “’Tis Done!”	43
Chapter 2 “Of the New-World a new discoverie”: Thomas Gage Breaks the Space-Time Continuum	53
Coda: “A Query”	81
Chapter 3 “These Shall Come from Far”: Global Networks of Faith	92
Coda: A Nonantum Life	117
Chapter 4 “Why should you be so furious?”: Global Fantasies of Violence	123
Coda: “Wicked Weed”	147
Chapter 5 “Would India had beene never knowne”: Wives Tales and the Global English Archive	159
Coda: Un/making the World	191
Bibliography	201
Index	215