

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
A Note to the Reader	xiii
Introduction	1
1. Seeing Like a Half-Blind State: Getting to Know the Central Eurasian Steppe, 1731–1840s	13
2. Information Revolution and Administrative Reform, ca. 1845–1868	31
3. An Imperial Biography: Ibrai Altynsarin as Ethnographer and Educator, 1841–1889	63
4. The Key to the World’s Treasures: “Russian Science,” Local Knowledge, and the Civilizing Mission on the Siberian Steppe	91
5. Norming the Steppe: Statistical Knowledge and Tsarist Resettlement, 1896–1917	125
6. A Double Failure: Epistemology and the Crisis of a Settler Colonial Empire	157
Conclusion	187
Notes	191
Bibliography	243
Index	263