

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction LISA KASMER	1
PART I National Trauma/National Culture	17
1 Mourning in Plain View: On Monuments, Trauma, Historical Memory, and Forgetting DIANE LONG HOEVELER	19
2 Nostalgia and Trauma in Thomas De Quincey's "The English Mail-Coach" IVAN ORTIZ	34
PART II Reimagining National and Colonial Trauma	55
3 Mansfield Park and National (Be)longing LISA KASMER	57
4 Systemic Traumas and Irish Identity in Florence Macarthy ANNE FREY	76
5 Gothic Internationalism: Irish Nationalist Critiques of Empire as a System of Violence and Trauma AMY E. MARTIN	97

PART III

Trauma at Home 119

- 6 Trauma and the Torturer: Of Monsters and Military Men at Morant Bay 121

KATHERINE J. ANDERSON

- 7 Men Who Would Not Be Kings: Sacrilizing Colonialist Trauma in Kipling's "Man who would be King" 141

ANDREA REHN

PART IV

Sins of the Family, Sins of the Nation 157

- 8 Trauma at the Heart of Empire: The "Sins of the Nation" and Barbault's *Eighteen Hundred and Eleven 159

JAMES M. GARRETT

- 9 Gothic Secretions: Deconstructing the "Family" 179

DAVID PUNTER

Bibliography 187

List of Contributors 201

Index 205