

Contents

1 Introduction to Archaeology of the Communist Era	1
Jerzy Gąssowski
2 Sickle, Hammer, and Trowel: Theory and Practice of Archaeology Under Communism	9
Ludomir R. Lozny
3 Archaeology in Soviet Russia	59
Leo Klejn
4 Archaeology and Marxism in Poland: A Personal Account	101
Jerzy Gąssowski
5 Historical Observations on Archaeology in the Polish People’s Republic, 1945–1989	123
Sarunas Milisauskas
6 Czech Archaeology Under Communism	151
Evžen Neustupný
7 “A Number of Valuable Guidance Received by Researchers who Studied Long Periods of History of Our Country ..”: On the Ideological Conditions of Archaeology in Ukraine 1945–1991	167
Michael Lyubychev
8 Contemporary Bulgarian Archaeology as a Social Practice in the Later Twentieth to Early Twenty-first Century	177
Lolita Nikolova and Diana Gergova
9 Archaeology in Hungary 1948–1989	195
László Bartosiewicz

10	Between Science and Ideology: Aspects of Archaeological Research in the Former GDR Between the End of World War II and the Reunification	235
	Eike Gringmuth-Dallmer
11	A Story of Their Own: What Happened and What is Going on with North Korean Archaeology?	275
	Yongwook Yoo
12	Marx, Sherlock Holmes, and Late Italian Prehistory	295
	Jonas Danckers
13	Looking for the Palaeolithic in Central Europe: Research, Impact, and Geopolitics	323
	Iza Romanowska
	Erratum to:	E1
	Index	349