

Contents

Introduction	1
1. Conceptual Framework	27
1.1 Time and Gender	27
1.1.1 Linearity and Masculinity	35
1.1.2 Bildungsroman and Its Male Protagonist	37
1.1.3 Narrative Overdetermination	41
1.1.4 Myths of Femininity	43
1.1.5 Female Life as a Non-Linear Entity	46
1.1.6 Woman with a Past and Linearity	52
1.2 Darwin	54
1.2.1 Progressive Change as the Cornerstone of the Theory of Evolution	54
1.2.2 Evolutionary Versus Revolutionary Vision of Time	55
1.2.3 Darwin's Denial of Female Evolutionary History	57
1.2.4 The Paradox of Woman's Childishness	62
1.2.5 Woman as a Savage	66
1.3 Freud	67
1.3.1 Woman as the Antagonist of Health in Darwinian and Freudian Theories	67
1.3.2 Hysteria	69
1.3.3 Trauma	73
1.3.4 Self-Lessness as Denial of the Past	77
2. Textual Analyses	80
2.1 Becky Sharp – Vanity Fair (1848)	80
2.2 Sensation Novels	111
2.2.1 Lady Audley's Secret (1862)	123
2.2.2 Aurora Floyd (1863)	133
2.3 Anthony Trollope	144
2.3.1 Madeline Neroni – Barchester Towers (1857)	147
2.3.2 Mrs Askerton – The Belton Estate (1865)	156
2.3.3 Madame Max – Phineas Finn (1869)	162
2.4 Thomas Hardy	170
Conclusion	189
Works Cited	199
Index	209