Table of contents

Introduction to deixis and pronouns in Romance languages 1
Kirsten Jeppesen Kragh & Jan Lindschouw

PART I. Deixis and grammatical paradigms

Deixis and person in the development of Greek personal pronominal paradigms 19
Brian D. Joseph

First person strong pronouns in spoken French: A case study in cliticization 33
Ulrich Detges

Preservation, modification, and innovation. Paradigmatic reorganisation of the system of personal pronouns – from Latin into Modern Italian 49
Lene Schøsler & Erling Strudsholm

On the grammar of kinship: Possessive enclisis in Italian dialects 69
Verner Egerland

PART II. Deixis and impersonality

Impersonality in Spanish personal pronouns 87
Susana S. Fernández

The Spanish impersonal se-construction: Constructional motivation for case-marking – quantitative evidence 109
Johan Pedersen

Diaphasic variation and change in French pronouns: Different uses of on with special reference to the on/nous alternation 125
Anita Berit Hansen

PART III. Deixis in a diamesic dimension

Clitic subjects in French text messages: Does technical change provoke and/or reveal linguistic change? 147
Elisabeth Stark

The use of personal deixis as an ideological instrument in Spanish political discourse 171
Nieves Hernández-Flores

Cognitive collages and other mental representations of address forms and strategies: Examples from Portuguese 189
Sandi Michele de Oliveira

PART IV. Deixis and the verbal system

The relevance of deixis in the description of the predicative relative clause 207
Kirsten Jeppesen Kragh & Erling Strudsholm

The marking of person deixis in the French future system – a diachronic approach 227
Jan Lindschouw

PART V. Deixis in a metalinguistic perspective

Place deixis in the 16th century grammars of Italy: The case of cotesto 253
Roman Sosnowski

Deixis and reference in the treatment of personal pronouns and demonstratives in Francesco Soave: Gramatica ragionata della lingua italiana, 1771 273
Viggo Bank Jensen

Name Index 285

Subject Index 287