

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Preface	xi
1 Introduction: Hopkins, Hegel, Marx and the language of nineteenth-century poetry	1
2 Wordsworth's Complexity: The Prelude VI, 1805	61
3 Blake's Simplicity: Jerusalem , Chapter I	90
4 Shelley's Perplexity: Prometheus Unbound	113
5 Browning, the fracture of subject and object: Sordello , Book III	141
6 Tennyson, the collapse of object and subject: In Memoriam	172
Conclusion	206
Index	219