

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Introduction Jacqueline Broad and Karen Detlefsen	1
Part I. Ethical and Political Liberty
1. Liberty and Feminism in Early Modern Women's Writing Karen Detlefsen	17
2. François Poulain de la Barre on the Subjugation of Women Martina Reuter	33
3. Gabrielle Suchon's 'Neutralist': The Status of Women and the Invention of Autonomy Lisa Shapiro	50
4. Marriage, Slavery, and the Merger of Wills: Responses to Sprint, 1700–01 Jacqueline Broad	66
5. Locke, Enlightenment, and Liberty in the Works of Catharine Macaulay and her Contemporaries Karen Green	82
6. Mary Wollstonecraft and Freedom as Independence Lena Halldenius	95
7. Sophie de Grouchy, The Tradition(s) of Two Liberties, and the Missing Mother(s) of Liberalism Eric Schliesser	109
8. Liberty of Mind: Women Philosophers and the Freedom to Philosophize Sarah Hutton	123
Part II. Metaphysical and Religious Liberty
9. Freedom and Necessity in the Work of Margaret Cavendish Deborah Boyle	141
10. Anne Conway on Liberty Marcy P. Lascano	163

vi CONTENTS

11. Mary Astell on Liberty Alice Sowaal	178
12. If I Were King! Morals and Physics in Emilie Du Châtelet's Subtle Thoughts on Liberty Ruth Hagenruber	195
13. Creation, Divine Freedom, and Catharine Cockburn: An Intellectualist on Possible Worlds and Contingent Laws Emily Thomas	206
Biographical Appendix	221
Bibliography	227
Index	245