
CONTENTS

Preface	v
Table of Cases	xvii
1. Introduction.....	1
2. The Analytical Framework.....	16
I. Introduction.....	16
II. Elizabeth Eisenstein and the Qualities of Print.....	19
A. Eisenstein's Qualities.....	20
B. Eisenstein, McLuhan and Media.....	21
III. Digital Information.....	22
A. Identifying Digital Qualities.....	23
i. Environmental Qualities.....	23
a. Continuing Disruptive Change.....	24
b. Permissionless Innovation.....	25
ii. Technical Qualities.....	25
a. Delinearisation of Information.....	25
b. Information Persistence or Endurance.....	28
c. Dynamic Information.....	29
d. Volume and Capacity.....	30
e. Exponential Dissemination.....	30
f. The 'Non-coherence' of Digital Information.....	31
g. Format Obsolescence.....	33
iii. User Associated Qualities.....	35
a. Availability, Searchability and Retrievability of Information.....	35
b. Participation and Interactivity.....	37
B. Some Observations.....	38
i. Online Disinhibition.....	38
C. The Internet and How We Think.....	41
IV. Conclusion.....	44
3. The Transition to the Digital Paradigm—Analogies and Functional Equivalence.....	46
I. Introduction.....	46
II. A Historical Perspective.....	46

III.	Digital Writing	49
IV.	Change and Communication in the Digital Paradigm	50
V.	The Law's Approach to Equating the Old with the New.....	54
VI.	Functional Equivalence	55
	A. Functional Equivalence Problems	58
	B. Functional Equivalence and Links.....	59
	C. Functional Equivalence—Final Thoughts	63
VII.	The Problem of Analogies	63
	A. The Nature of a Computer and the Scope of a Search	64
	B. Defamation, Publication Analogies and the Digital Paradigm	69
	i. The English Approach	69
	ii. Looking at the Technology—Canada and Australia	74
	a. Crookes v Newton	74
	iii. New Zealand— Wishart v Murray	76
	a. Wishart v Murray on Appeal.....	78
	b. The Use of Analogy.....	79
	c. Problems with the 'Ought to Know' Test	81
	d. The Deeper Aspects of the Case	82
VIII.	Conclusion	83
4.	Aspects of Internet Governance.....	85
	I. Introduction.....	85
	II. The Internet Governance Forum	87
	A. What does the IGF do?.....	89
	B. IGF Development.....	90
	C. State Actors and Stakeholders—The Creation of the IGF.....	91
	D. Nation-state Initiatives.....	94
	III. Technical Governance.....	99
	A. ICANN—The Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers.....	101
	IV. Models of Internet Governance	102
	A. Net Neutrality and Regulation at the Ends	103
	B. The Five Models	106
	i. Cyber-libertarian Theory	107
	ii. Transnational Theory	108
	iii. Code is Law—Code Writers and Engineers	109
	a. The Layer Theory.....	110
	iv. National Governments.....	110
	v. Market Regulation and Economics.....	112
	C. Internet Exceptionalism.....	113
	V. Conclusion	116

5.	The Property Problem	120
	I. Introduction.....	120
	II. Information as Property—The Debate in the Digital Paradigm	121
	III. The British Commonwealth Approach	122
	A. Information as Property for the Purposes of Theft.....	125
	B. The Dixon Case	127
	i. Dixon in the Supreme Court.....	131
	C. Information or Data in the Digital Space	135
	IV. The United States' Position	138
	A. Intangibles and Conversion—A United States Approach.....	140
	V. Property or Cyberproperty.....	142
	A. Virtual Property	143
	B. 'Digital Assets'	148
	VI. Conclusion	149
6.	Recorded Law—The Twilight of Precedent in the Digital Age.....	152
	I. Introduction.....	152
	II. Law and Precedent in the Print and Digital Paradigms.....	153
	A. Print and Precedent as a Brake on Change	158
	B. The Digital Revolution and the Legal Process	164
	C. Hyper-regulation, the Internet and Too Much Law	164
	D. Informing Judicial Decisions.....	166
	III. The Twilight of Precedent?	169
7.	Digital Information—The Nature of the Document and E-discovery.....	172
	I. Introduction.....	172
	II. The Development of E-discovery Rules	174
	A. Introduction.....	174
	B. The Sedona Conference.....	174
	C. The United States' Experience—The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure	177
	D. The English Experience	182
	III. Common Themes in the Development of E-discovery in Asia-Pacific Jurisdictions.....	188
	A. Introductory.....	188
	B. Engagement Threshold.....	188
	C. Court and Judicial Management.....	189
	D. Consult, Confer, Cooperate	190
	E. Reasonableness and Proportionality Approaches	190
	F. The Checklist Approach	191
	G. Early Case Assessment	192
	IV. The Rules and Utilisation of Technology	193
	A. The Use of Technical Expertise	193

B.	Technology Solutions—Keywords and TAR	194
i.	Keyword Searching	195
ii.	Technology Assisted Review (TAR)	198
iii.	TAR in England.....	204
V.	Conclusion	207
8.	Evidence, Trials, Courts and Technology.....	209
I.	Introduction.....	209
II.	Orality and Physical Presence of Witnesses.....	210
A.	The Problems of Presence and the Confrontation Right	212
III.	Facing Up to Change	215
IV.	Technology in Court.....	218
A.	Spatial Technologies.....	218
B.	Temporal Technologies.....	219
C.	The Translation Problem.....	220
D.	The Court Environment.....	220
E.	The Ability to Recount.....	220
F.	Intellectual Ability and Suggestibility	221
G.	Dealing with the Translation Problem.....	221
H.	Dealing with Environment and the Ability to Recount	222
I.	What of the ‘Confrontation Right’?	222
J.	Presentational Technologies	225
K.	Documents—Digitisation, Searchability and Analysis	225
L.	3D Use	226
i.	3D Projection	227
ii.	3D Printing.....	227
M.	Other Possibilities	229
V.	The Next Phase	230
VI.	Using Technology to Change Process Models	231
A.	Online Dispute Resolution	233
B.	From Online ADR to Online Court.....	236
VII.	Conclusion	241
9.	Social Media	243
I.	Introduction.....	243
II.	What is Social Media?	246
A.	The Social Media Taxonomy	250
III.	Social Media Meets the Law	254
A.	Social Media and the Courts	255
IV.	The Googling Juror.....	260
A.	Professor Thomas’ Research	260
B.	Information Flows	262
C.	Dealing with Juror Misconduct.....	264
D.	The Nuanced Approach.....	265

V.	Lost in Translation—Interpreting Social Media Messages	266
VI.	Other Aspects of Social Media	271
VII.	Conclusion	272
10.	Information Persistence, Privacy and the Right to be Forgotten	274
I.	Introduction	274
II.	Privacy Themes	275
III.	Privacy Taxonomies	277
IV.	Obscurity of Information—Practical and Partial Obscurity	279
V.	Judicial Approaches	280
VI.	The Internet and Privacy	281
A.	Social Networking and Privacy	283
B.	Why Compromise Privacy?	284
C.	Social Networking and the Future of Privacy	286
VII.	Search Engines and Information Retrievability	287
VIII.	The Right to be Forgotten	287
A.	Viktor Mayer-Schönberger and Delete	288
i.	Digital Information or Digital Memory	290
ii.	Digital Systems as a Communication Tool	292
iii.	Fact and Truth	293
iv.	Mayer-Schönberger’s Solution	295
B.	Privacy and the Right to be Forgotten	296
C.	Google Spain and the Right to Be Forgotten	298
i.	Matters Arising	300
ii.	Freedom of Expression Issues	302
iii.	The Return of Partial and Practical Obscurity	302
iv.	Emasculating the Internet?	302
v.	Google Spain —The Aftermath	303
vi.	The General Data Protection Regulation	304
IX.	A Right to Update?	305
X.	Conclusion	307
11.	Reputational Harms	309
I.	Introduction	309
II.	The Publication Issue	312
A.	Internet Platforms	312
B.	Platform Defamation	314
III.	Google and Defamation	315
A.	Metropolitan International Schools Ltd v Designtecnica Corporation	316

B.	Tamiz v Google	318
C.	New Zealand, Hong Kong and Australia	320
i.	A v Google	320
ii.	Hong Kong	321
iii.	Australia.....	322
a.	Trkulja and Duffy	323
b.	Bleyer	325
IV.	Linking and Publication	326
V.	Reputational Harms—Where Defamation Does Not Tread.....	330
A.	Harassment.....	330
B.	Revenge Porn	334
C.	Harmful Digital Communications	336
i.	Cyberbullying's Unintended Consequences	339
ii.	The Safe Harbour and Censorship.....	340
iii.	Comparative Enactments (Australia and Nova Scotia)	341
VI.	Triaging Reputation	343
VII.	Conclusion.....	345
12.	Conclusion	347
I.	The Qualities of Digital Information	348
II.	Governance of a Distributed, Dynamic, Changing Environment?	349
III.	Behavioural Change and Values	351
IV.	Old Rules in New Bottles—Seeking Consistency	353
A.	Functional Equivalence	353
B.	The Dangers of Analogy.....	354
C.	Possessing the Intangible—Digital Property	355
D.	Information Dynamic and Non-coherence	356
E.	Competing Approaches.....	356
V.	Volume, Dissemination and Availability of Information.....	357
A.	A Future for Precedent	358
B.	E-discovery—A Digital Success Story	359
VI.	Participation, Interactivity and the Message.....	362
A.	IT in Court.....	362
VII.	Who Am I Online?	364
A.	Information Persistence, Privacy and Social Media.....	364
B.	Memory and Forgetting	365
C.	Mixed Messages—Juries and Jokes.....	366
D.	Reputational Harms and Reputational Management.....	368
i.	Reputational Harms and Defamation.....	368
ii.	Other Remedies for Reputational Harms	370

VIII. The Message is the Medium—What the Law must Recognise372

Bibliography375

Index397