

Contents

Foreword	x
RACHELLE ALTERMAN
Preface	xi
PART I
Introduction	1
1 Land, scarcity, and property rights	3
THOMAS HARTMANN AND JEAN-DAVID GERBER
2 Land policy: how to deal with scarcity of land	8
JEAN-DAVID GERBER, ANDREAS HENGSTERMANN, AND FRANÇOIS-XAVIER VIALLO
3 Instruments of land policy: four types of intervention	27
ANDREAS HENGSTERMANN AND THOMAS HARTMANN
PART II
Regulating land uses without impacting property rights	33
4 Reference land values in Germany: land policy by market transparency	35
WINRICH VOß AND JÖRN BANNERT
A Swedish perspective on reference land values: transparency by tax policy	49
THOMAS KALBRO AND LEIF NORELL

A Taiwan perspective on reference land values: the hare and the hedgehogs – chasing real price levels with public market information	53
TZUYUAN STESSA CHAO
5 Added value capturing in Switzerland: how much is enough?	57
FRANÇOIS-XAVIER VIALON
A Dutch perspective on added value capture: how far can you go?	70
ERWIN VAN DER KRABBEN
A British perspective on added value capture: ups and downs during its history	74
JANET ASKEW
6 Land taxation in Estonia: an efficient instrument of land policy for land scarcity, equity, and ecology	78
FABIAN THIEL AND FABIAN WENNER
A German perspective on land taxation: political inertia and debates on social and distributional aspects	89
DIRK LÖHR
A British perspective on land taxation: politically unpopular	94
ANTONIA LAYARD
PART III
Steering land uses through regulation impacting property rights	99
7 Negotiated land use plans in the Netherlands: a central instrument in Dutch ‘active’ and ‘passive’ land policy	101
JOOST TENNEKES
An Austrian perspective on negotiated land use plans: a means for municipalities to mobilise building land	114
ALOIS HUMER
A Canadian perspective on negotiated land use plans: discretionary zoning in Vancouver	118
MARKO MARSKAMP
8 Urban growth boundary in the U.S.: managing land scarcity in the Portland region	122
EDWARD J. SULLIVAN

	A Dutch perspective on urban growth boundaries: from containing to stimulating growth	137
	LEONIE JANSSEN-JANSEN AND WENDY TAN
	A German perspective on urban growth boundaries: the answer of comprehensive regional planning	142
	MARTIN WICKEL
9	Land readjustment in Portugal: theoretically attractive but eternally postponed in practice	146
	BEATRIZ CONDESSA, ANA MORAIS DE SÁ, JOANA ALMEIDA, AND JOSÉ ANTUNES FERREIRA
	A German perspective on land readjustment: a proper instrument of modern urban governance for efficient land use	164
	THEO KÖTTER
	A Dutch perspective on land readjustment: low practicability without mandatory legislation	170
	SANNE HOLTSLAG-BROEKHOF
10	Building obligations in Switzerland: overcoming the passivity of plan implementation	175
	ANDREAS HENGSTERMANN
	A German perspective on building obligations: planning professionals try to remember	189
	MICHAEL KOLOCEK
	A U.S. perspective on obligations to build: planning professionals would be shocked	193
	HARVEY M. JACOBS
PART IV
	Redefining property rights to steer land uses	197
11	Pre-emption rights in France: disputes over pre-emptions and the ‘land scarcity’	199
	ROMAIN MELOT
	A Swiss perspective on pre-emption rights: impact without application	213
	STÉPHANE NAHRATH

A Serbian perspective on pre-emption rights: change that was necessary?	218
SOFIJA NIKOLIĆ
12 Tradable development rights in the U.S.: making zoning flexible through market mechanisms	223
THOMAS SKUZINSKI AND EVANGELINE R. LINKOUS
An Israeli perspective on TDR: trading for protecting	238
NIR MUALAM
A Canadian perspective on TDR: you call that a ‘market’?	243
ERAN S. KAPLINSKY
13 Long-term land leases in France: an instrument to address scarcity of social housing	248
SONIA GUELTON AND VINCENT LE ROUZIC
A Swiss perspective on time-limited property rights: strategic use for active land policy	260
JEAN-DAVID GERBER
An Australian perspective on heritable building rights: paramount property rights	265
REBECCA LESHINSKY
PART V
Redistributing property rights to steer land uses	269
14 Strategic land banking in the Netherlands: experiencing Dutch dilemmas	271
TEJO SPIT
A British perspective on strategic land banking: critical voices on land banking	284
DEBORAH PEEL
A U.S. perspective on land banking: just not the American way	289
RICHARD K. NORTON

15	Expropriation for urban development purposes in Germany: consider very carefully before using it	294
	JULIANE ALBRECHT
	A Dutch perspective on expropriation: the pragmatic way	307
	BARRIE NEEDHAM
	A U.S. perspective on expropriation: a radically different view	311
	DAN TARLOCK
16	Nationalization of land in Scotland: private property and the public interest	315
	GREG LLOYD
	A Czech perspective on nationalization of land: the post-socialist view	326
	JIRINA JILKOVA
	A Greek perspective on nationalization of land: kilt and fustanella – same principle, different colours	330
	KONSTANTINOS LALENIS
PART VI
	Conclusion	335
17	Planning with or against property rights	337
	JEAN-DAVID GERBER, THOMAS HARTMANN, AND ANDREAS HENGSTERMANN
	Contributor biographies	351
	Index	358