

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
1 Introduction Jeffrey Williams	1
I The Campaign Against PC
2 On "PC" and Related Matters Richard Ohmann	11
3 The Campaign Against Political Correctness: What's Really at Stake Joan Wallach Scott	22
4 Truth, Justice, and the American Way: A Response to Joan Wallach Scott Michael Bérubé	44
5 The Great PC Scare: Tyrannies of the Left, Rhetoric of the Right James Neilson	60
6 "Political Correctness": A Class Issue Tom Lewis	90
7 What Was "Political Correctness"? Race, the Right, and Managerial Democracy in the Humanities Christopher Newfield	109
II The Trouble with Theory
8 The War Against Theory Michael Sprinker	149
9 We've Done It to Ourselves: The Critique of Truth and the Attack on Theory Reed Way Dasenbrock	172

10	Theory Against Itself: New Historicism's Return to Practice John S. Howard and James M. Lang	184
11	"Not Theory. . . But a Sense of Theory": The Superaddressee and the Contexts of Eden Frank Farmer	205
12	Of Safe(r) Spaces and "Right" Speech: Feminist Histories, Loyalties, Theories, and the Dangers of Critique Darlene M. Hantzis and Devoney Looser	222
III Othering the Academy
13	Russell Jacoby, Antiprofessionalism, and the Politics of Cultural Nostalgia Barry W. Sarchett	253
14	Othering the Academy: Professionalism and Multiculturalism Bruce Robbins	279
15	Academics as Public Intellectuals: Rethinking Classroom Politics Henry A. Giroux	294
16	A Paradox of the Culture War Gerald Graff	308
	Bibliography	313
	Index	331
	Contributors	339