

C O N T E N T S

Page

CHAPTER I

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE: A COMPARATIVE OVERVIEW, by Tiziano Treu

1.	Introduction	1
	1.1 Focus of the analysis
	1.2 Definition of the public service
2.	Essential data on the public service	4
	2.1 Trends in employment
	2.2 Trends in unionisation
	2.3 Trends in strike
	2.4 Trends in wages and salaries
3.	Methods of determining conditions of employment	9
	3.1 The Parties: Employee representation
	3.1.1 Public service unions
	3.1.2 Employer representation
	3.2 Methods of determining conditions of employment
	3.2.1 General trends
	3.2.2 Methods used in different countries studied
	3.2.3 The various forms of consultation
	3.2.4 The scope of collective bargaining
	3.2.5 Relationship between collective bargaining and arbitration
	3.2.6 Centralisation/decentralisation of decision-making	27
4.	Labour disputes and their settlement
	4.1 Notion and classification of labour disputes
	4.1.1 The notion of a labour dispute
	4.1.2 The classification of disputes
	4.2 Procedures for settling interest disputes
	4.3 Procedures for settling rights disputes
5.	Acts of dispute and their regulation	35
	5.1 The right to strike
	5.2 Lock-outs
	5.3 Limitations on the right to strike
	5.4 Self-regulation by the unions
	5.5 The use of sanctions
6.	Concluding remarks	41
	6.1 Basic trends
	6.2 The challenges of the 1980s

vii

CHAPTER II

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE FEDERAL REPUBLIC OF GERMANY, by Werner Blenk

1.	Constitutional and statutory background	49
	1.1 Beamte
	1.2 Angestellte and Arbeiter
	1.3 Dualism and convergence
2.	Basic data on the public service	52
	2.1 Trends in employment
	2.2 Trends in unionisation
	2.3 Trends in strikes
	2.4 Trends in pay
3.	Methods of determining conditions of employment	55
	3.1 The parties
	3.1.1 Employee representation
	3.1.2 Employer representation
	3.2 Methods of determining conditions of employment
	3.2.1 For Beamte
	3.2.2 For Angestellte and Arbeiter
	3.2.3 Timing of negotiation and legislation
4.	Labour disputes and their settlement	64
	4.1 General Background
	4.2 Classification of labour disputes
	4.3 Procedures for settling interest disputes
	4.3.1 For Beamte
	4.3.2 For Angestellte and Arbeiter
	4.3.3 Procedures common to Beamte, Angestellte and Arbeiter: Co-determination at the service level
	4.4 Procedures for settling rights disputes
	4.4.1 For Beamte
	4.4.2 For Angestellte and Arbeiter
5.	Acts of dispute and their regulation	74
	5.1 Strikes involving Beamte
	5.1.1 The right to strike
	5.1.2 Strike-like action
	5.1.3 Sanctions for illegal actions
	5.2 Strikes by Angestellte and Arbeiter
	5.2.1 The right to strike
	5.2.2 Limitations of the right to strike
	5.2.3 Reasons for infrequency of strikes
	5.2.4 Strike work by Beamte
6.	Summary	80

CHAPTER III:

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE IN FRANCE,
by Michel Bazex

1.	Introduction	83
	1.1 Scope of the study
	1.2 Trends in employment
	1.3 Trends in unionisation
	1.4 Trends in strikes
	1.5 Trends in pay
2.	Methods of determining conditions of employment	85
	2.1 The parties
	2.1.1 Employee representation
	2.1.2 Employer representation
	2.2 Methods of determining conditions of employment
	2.2.1 Unilateral determination by the administration
	2.2.2 Concertation
	2.2.3 Negotiation
	2.2.4 Possible reforms
3.	Labour disputes and their settlement	98
	3.1 Notion and classification of labour disputes
	3.2 Procedures for settling disputes concerning changes in the legal rules
	3.2.1 The outcome of disputes over changes in the legal rules
	3.2.2 Conclusions
	3.3 Procedures for settling disputes concerning application of the legal rules
4.	Acts of disputes and their regulation	104
	4.1 Principle of the right to strike
	4.2 Exercise of the right to strike
	4.3 Proposals for change
5.	Conclusions	107

CHAPTER IV:

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE IN ITALY,
by Tiziano Treu

1.	Introduction	111
	1.1 Scope of the study
	1.2 Trends in employment
	1.3 Trends in unionisation
	1.4 Trends in strike
	1.5 Trends in wages

	Page
2. Methods of determining conditions of employment	117
2.1 The parties
2.1.1 Employee representation
2.1.2 Employer representation
2.2 Methods of determining conditions of employment
2.2.1 History
2.2.2 The present situation
2.2.3 Prospects for the future
3. Labour disputes and their settlement	126
3.1 Notion and classification of labour disputes
3.2 Procedures for settling interest disputes
3.2.1 Mediation by "political authorities"
3.2.2 Dispute settlement by bipartite bodies
3.2.3 Evaluation
3.3 Procedures for settling rights disputes
3.3.1 The administrative courts
4. Acts of disputes and their regulation	134
4.1 The right to strike
4.2 Limitations on the right to strike
4.3 Self-regulation by the unions
4.4 Legal regulation of strikes
5. Conclusions and prospects	138
5.1 General trends
5.2 A new approach to labour relations

CHAPTER V:

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE IN JAPAN, by Kazutoshi Koshiro

1. Introduction	145
1.1 Scope of the study
1.2 Trends in employment
1.3 Trends in unionisation
1.4 Trends in strikes
1.5 Trends in wages
2. Methods of determining conditions of employment	155
2.1 The parties
2.1.1 Employee representation
2.1.2 Employer representation
2.2 Methods of determining conditions of employment
2.2.1 Unilateral determination
2.2.2 Collective bargaining and third-party intervention

	2.2.3 Levels of representation and decision-making
	2.2.4 Evaluation of main trends
3.	Labour disputes and their settlement	168
	3.1 Notion and classification of labour disputes
	3.2 Procedures for settling interest disputes
	3.2.1 National and local civil service
	3.2.2 National enterprises
	3.3 Procedures for settling rights disputes
4.	Acts of dispute	171
	4.1 General proposals for improvement
5.	Conclusions	173

CHAPTER VI:

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE IN SWEDEN,

by Torsten Seth

1.	Introduction	177
	1.1 Scope of the study
	1.2 Trends in employment
	1.3 Trends in unionisation
	1.4 Trends in strike
	1.5 Trends in pay
2.	Methods of determining conditions of employment	179
	2.1 Statutory framework
	2.2 The parties
	2.2.1 Employee representation
	2.2.2 Employer representation
	2.3 Methods of determining conditions of employment
	2.3.1 History
	2.3.2 Collective agreements
	2.3.3 Co-determination negotiations
	2.4 Evaluation
	2.5 Proposals for reform
3.	Labour disputes and their settlement	195
	3.1 Classification of disputes
	3.2 Procedures for settling interest disputes
	3.3 Procedures for settling rights disputes
4.	Act of disputes and their regulation	198
	4.1 The right to strike
	4.2 Limitations on the right to strike
	4.2.1 The Co-determination Act
	4.2.2 The Act on Public Employment
	4.2.3 The Basic Agreement
	4.3 Sanctions for illegal industrial action
	4.4 Proposals for reform

	Page
5. Conclusions	202

CHAPTER VII:

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE
IN THE UNITED KINGDOM, by David Winchester

1. Introduction	205
1.1 Scope of the study
1.2 Trends in employment
1.3 Trends in unionisation
1.4 Trends in strikes
1.5 Trends in pay
2. Methods of determining conditions of employment	216
2.1 The parties
2.1.1 Employee representation
2.1.2 Employer representation
2.2 Methods of determining conditions of employment
2.2.1 The traditional pattern
2.2.2 The challenge to collective bargaining in the 1970s
2.2.3 Collective bargaining prospects in the 1980s
3. Labour disputes and their settlement	230
3.1 The role of the law in dispute settlement
3.2 Procedures for settling interest disputes
3.3 Procedures for settling individual rights disputes
4. Act of dispute and their regulation	235
4.1 The Traditional framework
4.2 The new restrictions

CHAPTER VIII:

LABOUR RELATIONS IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE
IN THE UNITED STATES, by Steve Troyer

1. Introduction	243
1.1 Scope of the study
1.2 Trends in employment
1.3 Trends in unionisation
1.4 Trends in strikes
1.5 Trends in pay
2. Methods of determining conditions of employment	254
2.1 Introduction
2.2 The parties

	2.2.1	Employee representation
	2.2.2	Employer representation
2.3		Methods of determining conditions of employment
	2.3.1	The extension of collective bargaining rights to public employees
	2.3.2	Relationship of collective bargaining to other forms of wage determination
	2.3.3	Future prospects
3.		Labour disputes and their settlement	264
	3.1	Notion and classification of labour disputes
	3.2	Procedures for settling representation disputes
	3.3	Procedures for settling interest disputes
	3.3.1	Third-party intervention
	3.3.2	Evaluation
	3.3.3	Prospects of change
	3.4	Procedures for settling rights disputes
	3.4.1	Grievance arbitration
4.		Acts of dispute and their regulation	274
	4.1	The right to strike
	4.2	Limitations on the right to strike
	4.3	Self-regulation by the unions
	4.4	Sanctions for illegal strikes
	4.5	Prospects of further extension of the right to strike
5.		Conclusions	279