

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
SUMMARY AND CONCLUSIONS	9
a) The growing importance of retail banking	10
b) The consumer dimension of new technologies	11
c) EFT and traditional payment systems	11
d) Consumer reactions -- consumer benefits	12
e) The regulatory situation	12
f) Consumer problems with EFT	13
g) The international aspects	16
SUGGESTIONS FOR ACTION	17
a) Liability issues	17
b) Marketing and consumer information	17
c) Cost, pricing and choice	18
d) Consumer indebtedness	18
e) Protection of privacy	18
f) International co-operation	18
INTRODUCTION	19
Chapter I: THE CONSUMER INTEREST INVOLVED IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF RETAIL BANKING SERVICES	21
Chapter II: EFTS AS PART OF THE PAYMENT SYSTEM IN MEMBER COUNTRIES	26
1. Payment systems and payment habits in Member countries	26
2. Electronic funds transfer systems -- main types and presence in Member countries	31
3. Consumer reactions to EFTS	42

Chapter III: EFTS -- POLICY FRAMEWORK IN MEMBER COUNTRIES	45
1. Government interests in monitoring and regulating payment systems	45
2. The institutional framework in Member countries	46
3. Laws and regulations dealing specifically with payment systems and consumer protection in this field	51
4. Guidelines and self-regulation	55
Chapter IV: CONSUMER POLICY ISSUES ARISING FROM EFTS	59
1. Benefits of EFTS for consumers	59
2. Consumer problems with EFTS	60
A. Legal and contractual problems	60
a) Malfunctions, fraud and the liability problem	62
i) Malfunctions	62
ii) Fraud and security	64
iii) Approaches to the liability problem	67
b) Change of contract terms	70
c) Evidence of EFT operations	73
d) Error and dispute resolution	76
B. Consumer information problems	80
a) Marketing requirements	81
b) Disclosure requirements	82
c) Periodic statements	84
d) Consumer education	86
C. Economic problems	87
a) Cost and pricing of financial services	88
b) Impact on competition and industry structure	89
c) Freedom of choice	91
D. Social problems	91
a) Consumer indebtedness	91
b) Privacy and confidentiality	95
c) Availability of financial services to vulnerable consumer groups	97
3. The international aspects of EFTS	99
NOTES AND REFERENCES	103

Annexes

I.	CDs, ATMs AND EFTPOS TERMINALS IN MEMBER COUNTRIES IN 1987	107
II.	EXTRACT FROM THE US ELECTRONIC FUND TRANSFER ACT	108
III.	CODE OF PRACTICE DEFINING THE ISSUE AND USE OF ELECTRONIC FUNDS TRANSFER CARDS WITHIN NEW ZEALAND	110
IV.	THE DANISH PAYMENT CARDS ACT	120
V.	RECOMMENDED PROCEDURES TO GOVERN THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN THE USERS AND PROVIDERS OF ELECTRONIC FUNDS TRANSFER SYSTEMS (EFT) IN AUSTRALIA	130