

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Prologue.....	1
Part 1 The Problem
Chapter 1 Introduction.....	7
Chapter 2 Eurocentric Properties versus World-System Postulates	12
Eurocentric Properties.....	12
World-System Postulates.....	19
Approaching the Thesis	31
Part 2 World-System Critiques
Chapter 3 The Liberal Conception of Imperialism	45
The Basic Liberal Argument	45
The Liberal False Claim to Ethical Neutrality	49
Liberal Eurocentric Imprecision.....	56
Chapter 4 The Radical Conception of Imperialism.....	65
Hobson's Radical Legacy.....	65
A Close and Critical Look at Hobson's Legacy	68
The Flaw of an Imprecise Solution for an Over-precise Problem	72
The Flaw of False Eurocentric Contrasts.....	75
The Incurable Eurocentric Urge	83
The Post-Hobson Radicals.....	84
Chapter 5 The Marxist Conception of Imperialism	91
The Legacy of Marx in Lenin's Theory of Imperialism	91
The Leninist Orthodoxy: The Fallacy of "the Highest Stage"	97
The Leninist Orthodoxy: Exaggerated Respect for Monopolies as Historic Watershed	100
Some Marxist Concessions to the Eurocentric Charge.....	107

Part 3 A World-System Basis for a Theory of Imperialism

Chapter 6 The Thesis	117
The Continuity of Imperialism Thesis	117
The Capitalist-Imperialist Phase Relationships.....	120
Chapter 7 The Crisis and Some Derivative Hypotheses	129
The Thesis and the Crisis in the Theory of Imperialism.....	129
The Thesis and Some Clarifications	135
The Thesis and Some Derivative Hypotheses.....	143

Part 4 Challenges and Responses

Chapter 8 Questions and Answers	149
Pressure to Deepen the Thesis	149
Pressure to Widen the Thesis.....	156
Chapter 9 Epilogue.....	168
Select Bibliography	177