

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Note to the Text	x
1. Introduction	1
Part I The Centrality of Gender	7
2. Feminism and Tragedy	9
Argument by antithesis	10
Argument by analogy	14
The family	15
The family and the Church	22
Cosmos	25
3. Foregrounding Gender and Tragedy	34
Feminism: genre and power	37
Part II Woman, Tragedy and Transgression	47
4. Tragedy	49
The Renaissance concept of tragedy	50
Transcendence versus transgression	55
Woman and the tragic paradigm: decentring the tragic hero	64
5. The Construction of Woman Through Absence, Silence and Utterance	74
6. Feminine Endings or Dead Centres	90

Contents

Part III Gender Differentiation in Tragedy	99
7. The Patriarchal Imperative	101
8. Exorcism and Exile	112
9. Misogyny and the Misogynistic Voice	123
10. Ambition and Lechery: Desire and the Malcontent	132
11. A Monstrous Desire	140
12. In Praise of Woman	148
13. Masculinity and Power	155
Impuissance	155
Potency	165
Conclusion	172
Select Bibliography	173
Index	182