

Contents

Introduction VII

JAY WATSON

Note on the Conference XXV

African American Poetic Responses to Faulkner 3

CHIYUMA ELLIOTT, RACHEL ELIZA GRIFFITHS,
DERRICK HARRIELL, RANDALL HORTON, JAMAAL MAY

The Street Ran through Cities: Faulkner and the Early African American Migration Narrative 20

JAMES SMETHURST

Lingering in the Black: Faulkner's Illegible Modernist Sound
Melding 36

THADIOUS M. DAVIS

Tracking Faulkner in the Paths of Black Modernism 59

GEORGE HUTCHINSON

Miscegenation and Progression: The First Americans of Jean Toomer and William Faulkner 74

ANDREW B. LEITER

"Go to Jail about This Spoonful": Narcotic Determinism and Human Agency in "That Evening Sun" and "A Spoonful Blues" 89

TIM A. RYAN

Narrative Leaps to Universal Appeal in McKay's Banjo and Faulkner's
A Fable 107

DOTTY DYE

Reconstructions: Faulkner and Du Bois on the Civil War 119

T. AUSTIN GRAHAM

- “The President Has Asked Me”: Faulkner, Ellison, and Public Intellectualism 133
JOSEPH FRUSCIONE
- Dangerous Quests: Transgressive Sexualities in William Faulkner’s “The Wild Palms” and James Baldwin’s Another Country 147
BEN ROBBINS
- From Yoknapatawpha County to St. Raphael Parish: Faulknerian Influence on the Works of Ernest J. Gaines 161
JOHN WHARTON LOWE
- “For Fear of a Scandal”: Sexual Policing and the Preservation of Colonial Relations in William Faulkner and Marie Vieux-Chauvet 183
JENNA SCIUTO
- In the Book of the Dead, the Narrator Is the Self: Edwidge Danticat’s The Dew Breaker as a Response to Faulkner’s Haiti in Absalom, Absalom! 194
SHARRON EVE SARTHOU
- Contemporary Black Writing and Southern Social Belonging: Beyond the Faulknerian Shadow of Loss 207
LISA HINRICHSEN
- “It Was Enough That the Name Was Written”: Ledger Narratives in Edward P. Jones’s The Known World and Faulkner’s Go Down, Moses 219
MATTHEW DISCHINGER
- Morrison’s Return to Faulkner: A Mercy and Absalom, Absalom! 233
DOREEN FOWLER
- Natasha Trethewey’s Joe Christmas and the Reconstruction of Mississippi Nativity 245
TED ATKINSON
- Contributors 256
- Index 260