

CONTENTS

1 Introduction: The Key Strengths of Ethnographic Peace Research	1
Gearoid Millar
2 Contextualizing Ethnographic Peace Research	21
Birgit Bräuchler
3 Feminist Ethnographic Research: Excavating Narratives of Wartime Rape	43
Annika Björkdahl and Johanna Mannergren Selimovic
4 Institutional Ethnography as Peace Research	65
Mike Klein
5 The Impetus for Peace Studies to Make a Collaborative Turn: Towards Community Collaborative Research	89
Bennett Collins and Alison Watson
6 Conflicting Boundaries and Roles: Impressions of Ethnographic Fieldwork in the French Banlieues	115
Luuk Slooter

7	Violent Spirits and a Messy Peace: Against Romanticizing Local Understandings and Practices of Peace in Mozambique	137
	Nikkie Wiegink
8	Understanding Reconciliation Through Reflexive Practice: Ethnographic Examples from Canada and Timor-Leste	159
	Victoria K. Sakti and Anne-Marie Reynaud
9	Researching Peace Peacefully: Using Ethnographic Approaches in Timor-Leste	181
	Sophia Close
10	How Much Peace Can the Military Instigate? Anthropological Perspectives on the Role of the Military in Peace Intervention	207
	Maren Tomforde
11	Beyond “Being There”: Space and Mobility in Ethnographic Peace and Transitional Justice Research	231
	Courtney E. Cole
12	Conclusion: The Constructive Tension of Interdisciplinary Endeavours	253
	Gearoid Millar
	Index	273