

CONTENTS

Introduction	2
Chapter I. Alexis' Experimental Novel: An Early "Zeitroman"	7
Portrayal in Literature of Current Events	7
"Zeitroman," "historischer Roman": the Goal of the Novel	10
The Letter Form	15
Subjectivity and Objectivity in the Novel	19
"Zerrissenheitsroman"	24
The Plot	25
A "Roman des Nebeneinander"?	31
The Problem of Concluding the Novel	36
The Coherence of the Mosaic: Unifying Elements	39
Chapter II. The Principals in Alexis' "Drama aus der Gegenwart":
Configuration and Meaning	44
Eberhard	44
The Descent of a "Zerrissener" into Madness	44
"Glaube," "Liebe," "Hoffnung"	52
The Artistic Creation of a Radical	55
Eberhard and Heine	57
Baron Landschaden	58
The Loss of "Glaube," "Liebe," "Hoffnung"	58
The Vain Pursuit of Honor	62
The Baron and the Prince von Pückler-Muskau	67
The Female Characters	70
Canoness Sophie: the Baron's Mentor	73
Sidonie: the Modern Woman of the 1830's	80
Rose: the Victim of Society	87
The Baron's Moral Education	96
Chapter III. The Portrait of Contemporary Life: Re-creation and
Interpretation	98
"Zerrissenheit," "Verwirrung," "Sprachverwirrung"	98
Censorship	101
The Literary Scene	109
German Literary Heritage	110
Goethe	110
Romanticism	114
The Function of Art	117
Alexis' View of German Cultural Tradition	119
Contemporary Literature	120
Börne	121
Personalities, Works, Genres, "Trivialliteratur"	123
The Book Market and Taste of the Public	124
Journalism	127
Saphir	128
Gutzkow	130
Jews in Literature	132
Theater	133

Young Germany	137
The Crisis in Public Affairs	139
Aristocrat vs. Bourgeois	140
Contemporary Political Figures and Events	141
Political "Zerrissene" and their Lost Causes	142
Rebellion: an Exercise in Futility	145
Radical, Royalist, and Liberal	146
The Unjust Power Structure	148
Disunity and Bankruptcy of Leadership	155
Progress and Continuity	163
The Vision: the Organic Whole vs. "Zerrissenheit"	164
Chapter IV. The Reception of "Das Haus Düsterweg"	167
The Reception by Contemporary Literary Critics	168
The Reception of "Das Haus Düsterweg" by a Functionary	184
Reception of Alexis' Novel after the Publication of "Zwölf Nächte"	185
"Das Haus Düsterweg" and Twentieth-Century Scholarship	190
Conclusion	201
Works Consulted	206
Primary Sources	206
Secondary Sources	209
Index of Names	220