

Contents

Information technology in the Federal Republic of Germany – status and trends – Dipl.-Kfm. Friedrich Winkelhage, Sankt Augustin	1
Data structure architecture and its applications . . . . . Prof. Dr.-Ing. Wolfgang K. Giloi, Berlin	15
A hardware architecture for high speed Prolog execution . . . . . Dipl.-Phys. Harald Luedtke, Paderborn Dipl.-Ing. Gotthard Schleich, Paderborn	31
Goals and principles of the EUMEL operating system . . . . . Dipl.-Math. Albert Noltemeier, Sankt Augustin	43
The standardised operating system as the basis for the transfer of application software to higher-performance hardware . . . . . Christoph Schmees-van Zadelhoff, Bremen	57
Expert systems in Germany – Academic research and industrial developments . . . . Dipl.-Math. Dieter Bungers, Sankt Augustin	71
Expert systems in data processing environments . . . . . Dr. Christian R. Hort, München	83
Application-relevant results from the recent ISO “open systems interconnection” and CCITT “telematic” standardization efforts . . . . . Dr. Eckart Raubold, Darmstadt	95
OSI-based data communication services for the German scientific community . . . . Klaus Ullmann, Berlin	105
Language support for program developments . . . . . Dr.-Ing. Stefan Jähnichen, Karlsruhe	113
Programming languages . . . . . Dr. Niels Christensen, Dortmund	127
Curricula vitae . . . . .	137