

Contents

Chapter 1	When Law and Psychology Meet	1
	Hans F.M. Crombag
	A Technology for Controlling Behavior	1
	A Brief History	2
	Decision-Making Under Uncertainty	3
	Establishing Facts	4
	Models of Rationality	6
	Attribution of Liability	7
	Effects of Punishment	9
	Punishment in the Real World	10
Part One	Prediction and Explanation of Criminal Behavior
	Introduction	17
	Friedrich Lösel
Chapter 2	Long-Term Prediction of Offending and Other Life Outcomes	26
	David P. Farrington
	The Cambridge Study in Delinquent Development .	27
	Explanatory and Predictive Research	29
	Prediction of Offending	31
	Prediction at Age 32	34
	Conclusions	37
Chapter 3	Prediction of Criminal Behavior: Recent Develop- ments in Research and Policy in the United States .	40
	John Monahan
	Naive Reliance	40
	Empirical Retreat	41
	Pragmatic Resurgence	42

Chapter 4	The Prediction of Drunken Driving Offences	53
	Egon Stephan
	The Legal Framework and the Role of Psychologists	53
	Views Regarding Drunken Driving	56
	The Scientific Basis for Predictions	57
	Linking Findings of Research on Alcoholism with Those Concerning Drunken Driving	62
	An Interactionistic Approach to Prediction and Diagnosis	63
Chapter 5	Juvenile Delinquency: Definitions, Character, and Theory	70
	John P.J. Dussich
	Definition	70
	Character	71
	Theoretical Statement	72
	The Study	77
	Findings	77
	Conclusions	79
Chapter 6	Situational Effects on the Decisions of Adolescent Offenders to Carry Out Delinquent Acts. Relations to Moral Reasoning, Moral Goals, and Personal Constructs	81
	Robert W. Goldsmith, Gunilla Throfast, and Pär-Eric Nilsson
	Introduction	81
	Method	83
	Results and Discussion	86
	Final Comments	98
Chapter 7	Crime Specialisation, Crime Displacement and Rational Choice Theory	103
	Derek B. Cornish and Ronald V. Clarke
	Introduction	103
	Displacement and Generalisation: The Empirical Evidence	104
	The Concept of Choice-Structuring Properties	107
	Implications for Crime Control	113

Chapter 8	Questioning Convicted Burglars: A Contribution to Crime Prevention	118
	Ingrid M. Deusinger
	Problem	118
	Major Questions and Rationale	119
	Method	119
	Results and Discussion	123
Part Two	Legal Thought, Attribution, and Sentencing
	Introduction	129
	Jochen Haisch
Chapter 9	Algebraic Schemes in Legal Thought and in Everyday Morality	136
	Wilfried Hommers and Norman H. Anderson
	The Case of Recompense	137
	Experimental Analysis	139
	Legal Schemes as Heuristics for Cognitive Science .	144
	Analysis of Algebraic Schemes in Legal Psychology	146
Chapter 10	Decision-Making and the Law: A View from the Grid	151
	Maya Bar-Hillel
	Grid Arguments	151
	The Set Up	155
	What Legal Decision-Making Is Not	156
	“A View from the Grid”	158
	Other Issues That Could Be Grist for the Grid	162
Chapter 11	Decision Processes in the Jury Room	163
	A. Philip Sealy
	Introduction	163
	The Chicago Studies	165
	The Oxford Studies	169
	The Yale Studies	170
	The Studies at the London School of Economics ..	170
	Discussion	177

Chapter 20	Verbal and Visual Processes in Person
	Identification	303
	Siegfried Ludwig Sporer
	Introduction	303
	Verbal and Visual Processes Within an Integrative Framework of Eyewitness Testimony	304
	Verbal and Visual Processes at the Perceptual Phase	305
	Verbal and Visual Processes at the Retention Phase	313
	Verbal and Visual Processes at the Retrieval Phase .	315
	Conclusions	320
Part Four	Correctional Treatment: Clinical and Organizational Aspects
	Introduction	327
	Friedrich Lösel
Chapter 21	Evaluation Research on Correctional Treatment in West Germany: A Meta-analysis	334
	Friedrich Lösel and Peter Köferl
	Method	338
	Results	342
	Discussion	347
Chapter 22	Treatment of Young Remand Prisoners: Problems and Results of a Research Project	356
	Helmut Kury
	The Situation in Pretrial Detention	357
	The Present Study	357
	Method	360
	Results	364
	Discussion	375
Chapter 23	Influencing Juvenile Offenders by Way of Alternative Sanctions in Community Settings	382
	Albert R. Hauber
	Introduction	382
	The Development of Juvenile Delinquency	382
	Backgrounds in Juvenile Delinquency	383
	Reactions to Juvenile Criminality	386

Viewpoints on Vandalism: The Existing Theories . . . 388
 Initiating the Development of a Differentiated
 Theory of Vandalism 389
 The Need for a Differentiated Approach by Policymakers 392
 Untapped Possibilities for a Differentiated
 Approach 393
 Prevention: The Crowning Piece of the Differentiated Approach 396

Chapter 24 Relations Between General Attitudes and Personality Traits of Prison Officers and Some Specific Attitudes Towards Prisoners 399
Willi Seitz
 Introduction 399
 Subjects and Methods 402
 Results 404
 Discussion of Results 408

Chapter 25 Psychology in Prison: Role Assessment and Testing of an Organizational Model 419
Friedrich Lösel and Thomas Bliesener
 Introduction 419
 Conceptual Framing 421
 Method 423
 Results 425
 Discussion 433

Author Index 441

Subject Index 453