

Contents

Acknowledgments	page vii
Introduction	I
1 It Must Be Abstract	12
2 Self-subsuming Artifacts: The Logic of Constructivist Abstraction	42
3 Knowledge Enormous Denies the God in Me: Abstraction and the Romantic Tradition	59
4 Modernist Irony and the Kantian Heritage	108
5 Eliot's Symboliste Subject as End and Beginning	142
6 "The Abstraction of the Artist": Three Painterly Models for the Constructivist Will	164
7 Modes of Abstraction in Modernist Poetry	222
8 Modernist Abstraction and Pound's First Cantos: The Ethos for a New Renaissance	283
9 Why Stevens Must Be Abstract	321
10 Afterword: The End(s) of Modernism	359
Appendix 1 Postmodernist Poetics Unfair to Modernist Poetry	380
Appendix 2 A Conceptual Grammar for Constructivist Abstraction	386
Notes	423
Works Consulted	507
Index	525