

Contents

	Acknowledgements	page viii
	A note on references and quotations	ix
	Introduction	1
PART I	The historiographic milieu
	1 Montesquieu's Considérations	9
	2 Hume	20
PART II	The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire
	3 Introduction	41
	Volume I – 1776
	4 Style	53
	5 Augustus	60
	6 Tacitus	80
	7 Narrative	89
	8 Chapters XV and XVI	99
	Gibbon among the philosophers	134
	Volumes II and III – 1781
	9 'The more rational ignorance of the man'	145
	10 Julian the Apostate	156
	11 Ammianus Marcellinus	169
	12 'The nice and secret springs of action'	182
	Volumes IV, V and VI – 1788
	13 'A dead uniformity of object vices'	195
	14 Structure	214
	15 'Not a system, but a series'	228
	16 'A keener glance'	242
	17 Realising the past	275
	18 'The wide and various prospect of desolation'	289
	Appendix	298
	Bibliography	307
	Index	313