

Contents

List of Illustrations      xiii

Preface      xv

ONE: The Preparation of a Critic

1 Boyhood and Clifton      3

Welsh roots and family background; first attack of tuberculosis, 1907-8; boyhood reading; Kipling and Mowgli; Swinburne, the Erechtheus feeling, and the sublime; Clifton College; C. H. Spence; E. H. C. Wethered; teaching in Adult School, Bristol; leanings toward romantic idealism; Shelley; Richards' character traits; history examination for Cambridge.

2 Cambridge      16

Magdalene College in 1911; the motto of Samuel Pepys; Richards as an undergraduate; second attack of tuberculosis, 1912-13; A. C. Benson; the critical milieu of aesthetic impressionism; Pater's criticism and legacy; four critics, 1905-13; Edward Bullough, A. J. Balfour, George Saintsbury, Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch; escaping the nineteenth century; Richards and Aestheticism.

- 3 Moral Science and Cambridge Humanism 35
Richards' turn from history to philosophy; the Cambridge Moral Science faculty; J. M. E. McTaggart and British Idealism; unity of finite selves; dialectic; Cambridge Humanism; the Cambridge Apostles at the turn of the century; W. E. Johnson; Richards' private life, 1915–18; third attack of tuberculosis, 1915–16; high mountaineering; Dorothea Eleanor Pilley; return to Cambridge, fall 1918.
- 4 G. E. Moore: "The Other Theory of Art" 49
The subject of influence; Moore and Richards; the character of Moore; philosophical psychology; Cambridge Realism and Common Sense; Richards' "The Other Theory of Art" (1918); the Naïf and the Elaborate perspectives on beauty; "escape from Moore."
- 5 Beauty and Truth 64
Meeting with C. K. Ogden on Armistice night, 18 November 1918; the founding of Cambridge English; Mansfield Forbes; "Art and Science" (1919); truth, the "decisive notion": art, "a kind of knowledge"; organic wholes; Clive Bell's "significant form" and "aesthetic emotion"; "Emotion and Art" (1919); six forms of emotion in art; language and analysis; multiple definition.
- TWO: The Theory and Method of Criticism
- 6 Agenda in the 1920s 87
*The year 1919; two periods of development, 1919–26 and 1927–29; theory of semantics and criticism; method of close reading; contribution to the Cambridge English School; Richards' lectures; Ogden, "an impenetrable mystery"; the Cambridge Heretics; the Cambridge Magazine; James Wood; "The Sense of Beauty" (summer 1920), republished as The Foundations of Aesthetics (1922); sixteen theories of beauty; Croce; the theory of synaesthesia; the Chung Yung of Confucius.*
- 7 Semantics 110
*The inner theme of The Meaning of Meaning (1923); instrumentality and the functional approach to language; Proper Meaning Superstition; the historical situation and Richards' and*

Ogden's intentions; the Triangle of Interpretation; words and things; grammar; the context theory of interpretation applied to signs; Canons of Symbolism; the context theory applied to words; symbol-situations; metaphor; five functions of language; translation; referential and emotive uses of language; Saussure; Wittgenstein.

8 Science, Poetry, and Society 146

Origins of a dichotomy; Arnold and Richards on science; a tableau vivant of twentieth-century science; three phases of Richards' scientific absorption; the argument of Science and Poetry (1926); a critique of Richards on politics and society; Bohr's complementarity principle (1927); associationist and anti-associationist influences on Richards; James Ward on "attention" and "continuum of consciousness"; William James; G. F. Stout on conation; Gestalt psychology; T. Ribot on pleasure.

9 The Sherrington Model 177

The choice of a model; C. S. Sherrington's The Integrative Action of the Nervous System (1906); the "final common path"; from impulse to attitude; Herbert Langfeld's The Aesthetic Attitude (1920); critical eudaemonism; the Benthamite theory of psychological value; Tolstoy and A. C. Bradley; reactions to Richards' psychology, 1924-79.

10 The Poet in Ideal Perfection 203

The poet's mind; organization; normality and universality; the "autonomous voice"; attitude toward biography; Richards the critic on Richards the poet.

11 How a Poem Works, I: The Parts 215

The paucity of Richards' practical criticism in print; the microscopic eye; typographical imagery; two types of "tied" imagery; rhyme; Richards, Roman Jakobson, and Shakespeare's Sonnet 129; "free" imagery; rhythm and meter; expectation and surprise; tone and the speaker; reading poetry aloud.

12 How a Poem Works, II: Reference and Metaphor 236

The definitions of sense and reference; literal and symbolic truth, morality, and aesthetic breakdown; "pseudo-statement" (1925); Middleton Murry's critique (1930); Richards' "breakthrough" on metaphor, The Philosophy of Rhetoric (1936); Kames.

- 13 How a Poem Works, III: The Whole 261
Three positions on wholeness; "badness" in poetry; H.D., Pound, Ella Wheeler Wilcox; "interanimation"; the equilibrium of opposed impulses; poetics of inclusion and exclusion; Hopkins (1926); on Forster's failure to synthesize (1927); Richards and the myth of synthesis; Eliot, Joyce, and Hardy; Lawrence, Shaw, Huxley, Wells; Yeats; irony; Richards on ambiguity in the 1920s; contextual check; on Eliot's "A Cooking Egg" (1925-54); tragic catharsis; a reading of Troilus and Cressida (1948).
- 14 The Pathology of Interpretation 294
Practical Criticism (1924); Close Reading and High Modernism; mass education and mass media; sense and feeling; mixed metaphor; allusion; tone and personification; stock responses and irrelevant associations; sentimentality and repression; critical preconceptions; theory.
- 15 Belief and Sincerity 317
The topics in Richards' criticism, 1924-34; Arnold's dilemma; the philosophical tradition; J. S. Mill; Alexander Bain; Newman's A Grammar of Assent (1870); William James and "The Will to Believe" (1895); James Ward on the "subjective"; false consciousness, the "crisis of reason," and Freud; belief and Aristotle's universals; the quest for sincerity; Confucius and Tzse-sze; the "technique" or "ritual" of sincerity; Tolstoy and Dostoyevski; humanist controversies ca. 1930; Wyndham Lewis and Eliot on belief, impersonality, and sincerity; Theodor Adorno's critique of authenticity or the "genuine"; Richards and "one's true nature."
- 16 Coleridge and the Whole Soul in Activity 359
Coleridge on Imagination (1934); "escaping his ambience"; educational activities, 1933-36; Richards and J. S. Mill; Coleridgean psychology; facts, powers, and faculties of mind; the "translation" of Reason; the "whole soul"; language, myth, and culture.
- THREE: The Later Career: Education and Poetry
- 17 Basic English: The Years in China 397
Ogden's invention, 1925-29; what Basic English is and is not; Richards' expansions of Basic; the international Basic movement;

- voyages to China, 1927, 1929-30, 1936-38, 1950, 1979; Mencius on the Mind (1930-32); the hsing, ch'i and ming; the dictionary; reform of grammar; Usage Doctrine; the application of Basic to teaching; program for Basic in China; Japanese invasion, July 1937; journey across China to Yunnan; high mountaineering in the Li Chiang Snow Range; ascent of Gyi-nà nu-lu; departure, May 1938.*
- 18 Experiment in America 430
- Arrival in the United States, September 1939; Harvard Commission on English Language Studies (1941); Language Research, Inc.; Coleridge's "seminal hint"; language and the organization of thought; educational designs; two themes of career, internal unity and self-control; motivation and self-correctibility; Jacques Ellul's critique of technology; Richards' late linguistic essays; "Meanings Anew" (1968); Noam Chomsky and generative grammar; Basic after the war; projects, 1945-74.*
- 19 The Classical Tradition 471
- Lost opportunities in youth; teaching English in China; Werner Jaeger and Paideia (1939); classical and Renaissance ideal of education; Hellenocentrism; Richards' strategies of translation; General Education in a Free Society (1945); from oral to written culture; Eric Havelock and Marshall McLuhan; "English Moralists"; the self; Plato, language, and dialectic; world citizenship, Nations and Peace, and politics after 1945; late educational and other essays; the Shannon-Weaver communications design; the debasement of language and modern media; translation; code-learning vs. "meaning"; on "the eye itself" in Shakespeare.*
- 20 Influence: Empson; Leavis and Scrutiny; American New Criticism 523
- William Empson and Seven Types of Ambiguity (1930); Empson on Richards; F. R. Leavis's literary and social criticism; Scrutiny; Q. D. Leavis; American New Criticism; Cleanth Brooks and Robert Penn Warren's Understanding Poetry (1938); John Crowe Ransom, The New Criticism (1941); New Criticism, science, and antihistoricism; William K. Wimsatt and Monroe C. Beardsley's Affective and Intentional Fallacies; Reuben Brower on tone and the speaker; Earl R. Wasserman on autonomously and syntax; Allen Tate on poetry as knowledge; the transcendent theme and the analogy between poetry and religion; "the tranquilized*

Fifties"; the "end of ideology" spirit; desire for synthesis vs. linguistic practice, ambiguousness, splitting; from New Criticism to deconstruction.

21 Poems and Plays: The Third Career 563

Richards' reasons for writing poetry; central themes; his poetic diction; his voices; A Leak in the Universe (1956); Goodbye Earth (1958) and The Screens (1960); Faustus and Satan; Tomorrow Morning, Faustus! (1962) "Erna" (1963); the eddying of the soul; "Nosce Teipsum" and "Ars Poetica"; death; "Annual Club Dinner" (1978); the legacy.

22 Mysterious Mountains 591

A lifelong "passion"; mountaineering in history; expertise and aspiration; the Idea of the Holy; exploits in North Wales, the Lake District, the Alps; major climbs; first ascent of the North Ridge of the Dent Blanche (1928); the mountaineering essays; "serenity amid stress"; mountain poems; Robert Lowell's sonnets on Richards in the mountains (1973).

23 Beyond 609

Last Things; dialogues with divinities; the making of Beyond (1969-74); C. S. Peirce's "type-token ambiguity"; types and archetypes; Renaissance ideal of litterae humaniores; the Book of Job; prose prologue and epilogue vs. poem; Plato on the Good and the Job poet; immortality and the soul; Dante; "Whose Endless Jar"; Richards and Shelley; Shelley's Prometheus Unbound; the "deep truth"; pleasure; "arts, though unimagined, yet to be."

24 Final Years: A Portrait of I. A. Richards 666

Return to Cambridge, England (1974); the Clark Lectures (1974); lecture tour of China (1979). A portrait.

Appendix Additional Entries to John Paul Russo, "A Bibliography of . . . I. A. Richards" 679

Abbreviations 683

Notes 687

Index 819