

Preface, ix

- 1 Charting the Neutral Ground: The Historicity of Fiction in Cooper's The Spy, 1
- 2 Literalism and the New England Mind: Charles Brockden Brown's Wieland as American History, 18
- 3 Covenant, Sacrifice, and the Loss of Eden in the Promised Land: Historical Consciousness in Hawthorne's "Roger Malvin's Burial," 36
- 4 Type, Antitype, and the Burdens of History: The Akeidian Romance of America, 55
- 5 The Spectral Evidence of History: Skepticism and Faith in Hawthorne's "Young Goodman Brown," 79
- 6 History's Veil and the Face of the Past: Acceptance and Acknowledgment in Hawthorne's Historical Romances, 98
- 7 Redemption and Renewal from the Historical Point of View: Romance in the Cinema House of the Seven Gables, 119
- 8 Reading Emerson: Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby and the Romance of Historical Revision, 143
- 9 The Sun Also Rises: Hemingway's New Covenant of History, 164
- 10 Seeking the Shores of Self: E. L. Doctorow's Ragtime and the Moral Fiction of History, 185

Notes, 216

Index, 240