

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	ix
Austrians in Exile
The Emigration of Austrians to Britain after 1938 and the Early Years of Settlement: A Survey Anthony Grenville	3
The Propagandists' Propagandist: Bruno Adler's 'Kurt und Willi' Dialogues as Expression of British Propaganda Objectives Jennifer Taylor	19
'Zum Emigranten habe ich kein Talent': Stefan Zweig's Exile in London Tatiana Liani	33
Exil, Judentum und Sprache in ausgewählten Nachlass-Aufzeichnungen von Elias Canetti Anne Peiter	49
Exil der Wiener Medizin in Großbritannien Renate Feikes	61
Enduring Exile? Or passing acquaintance? Images of Britain in the Work of Georg Kreisler Colin Beaven	75
Representations of Austria
'Immortal Austria': Eva Priester as a Propagandist for Austria in British Exile Charmian Brinson	93

Wien-Bilder: Paul L. Stein, Richard Tauber und das britische Kino	105
Christian Cargnelli
Fritz Rosenfeld, Filmkritiker	121
Brigitte Mayr & Michael Omasta
‘Kennen wir uns nicht aus Wien?’: Emigré Film- Makers from Austria in London 1928-1945	133
Tobias Hochscherf
Imaging the Future through the Past: Austrian Women Exile Writers and the Historical Novel	149
Andrea Hammel
Imagining Austria: Kohlröserl, Alpenglügen und Pâtisserie – the Vision of the Exiled Children	165
Deborah Vietor-Engländer
Austria Revisited
„Einmal Emigrant, immer Emigrant“: Zur literarischen und publizistischen „Remigration“ Robert Neumanns 1946-1965	181
Maximiliane Jäger
Many Happy Returns? Attitudes to Exile in Austria’s Literary and Cultural Journals in the early Post-war Years	197
Anthony Bushell
Index	211