
Marsha Norman

A Casebook

edited by

Linda Ginter Brown

GARLAND PUBLISHING, INC.

New York & London

1996

Contents

General Editor's Note	ix
Preface	xi
Chronology	xv
The Impossibility of Getting Out	3
The Psychopolitics of the Family in Marsha Norman's Getting Out Gretchen Cline
At the Intersection	27
Configuring Women's Differences through Narrative in Norman's Third and Oak: The Laundromat Grace Epstein
Revolving It All	47
Mother-Daughter Pairs in Marsha Norman's 'night, Mother and Samuel Beckett's Footfalls John Kundert-Gibbs
A Place at the Table	63
Hunger as Metaphor in Lillian Hellman's Days to Come and Marsha Norman's 'night, Mother Linda Ginter Brown
"And the Time for It Was Gone"	87
Jessie's Triumph in 'night, Mother Anne Marie Drew

"I Don't Know What's Going to Happen in the Morning"	95
Visions of the Past, Present, and Future in The Holdup Robert Cooperman
The "Other Funeral"	109
Narcissism and Symbolic Substitution in Marsha Norman's Traveler in the Dark Scott Hinson
Marsha Norman's Sarah and Abraham	121
"The Moon Is Teaching Bible" Katherine H. Burkman and Claire R. Fried
"This Haunted Girl"	133
Marsha Norman's Adaptation of The Secret Garden Lisa Tyler
Writing the Other	145
Marya Bednerik
Don't Read This Review!	159
'night, Mother by Marsha Norman Robert Brustein
Update with Marsha Norman	163
Linda Ginter Brown
More with Marsha Norman	197
Linda Ginter Brown
<hr/> A Marsha Norman Bibliography	221
Robert Conklin
<hr/> Contributors	237
<hr/> Index	241