

Elizabethan Theater

Essays in Honor of S. Schoenbaum

Edited by
R. B. Parker and S. P. Zitner

Newark: University of Delaware Press
London: Associated University Presses

Contents

Introduction	9
Part 1. The Biographical Record
Shakespeare's Lives: 1991–1994 STANLEY WELLS	15
Yeomen, Citizens, Gentlemen, and Players: The Burbages and Their Connections MARY EDMOND	30
Jonson and Reflection BRIAN GIBBONS	50
Part 2. The Idea of Authorship
The Birth of the Author RICHARD DUTTON	71
Constructing the Author BARBARA A. MOWAT	93
Jonson and the Tother Youth IAN DONALDSON	111
The Presence of the Playwright, 1580–1640 ALEXANDER LEGGATT	130
"All is True": Negotiating the Past in Henry VIII ANNABEL PATTERSON	147
Part 3. The Playwright in the Play
Is There a Shakespeare after the New New Bibliography ? MEREDITH SKURA	169
Two Distincts, Division None: Shakespeare and Fletcher's The Two Noble Kinsmen of 1613 PHILIP J. FINKELPEARL	184
"The Norwegians Are Coming!" Shakespearean Misleadings SUSAN SNYDER	200

Remembering and Forgetting in Shakespeare JONAS BARISH	214
Two Versions of Romeo and Juliet 2.6 and Merry Wives of Windsor 5.5.215–45: An Invitation to the Pleasures of Textual/Sexual Di(Per)versity STEVEN URKOWITZ	222
Part 4. Playwrights and Contexts
Theatrical Politics and Shakespeare's Comedies, 1590–1600 GEORGE K. HUNTER	241
Speculating Shakespeare, 1605–1606 ARTHUR F. KINNEY	252
King Lear: Monarch or Senior Citizen? R. A. FOAKES	271
The World Beyond: Shakespeare and the Tropes of Translation MICHAEL NEILL	290
A Checklist: S. Schoenbaum, 1927– COMPILED BY NANCY KLEIN MAGUIRE	309
Contributors	311
Index	315