
Dialogue and Critical Discourse

Language, Culture, Critical Theory

Edited by

Michael Macovski

New York Oxford • Oxford University Press 1997

Contents

Contributors, xi

Introduction / Textual Voices, Vocative Texts: Dialogue, Linguistics, and Critical Discourse 3

Michael Macovski

Part I DIALOGUE WITHIN WORKS

1 / Narrative Transmission: Shifting Gears in Shelley's "Ozymandias" 29

Timothy R. Austin

2 / The Power of Speech: Dialogue as History in the Russian

Primary Chronicle 47

Rachel May

3 / Crossroads to Community: Jude the Obscure and the Chronotype of Wessex 65

John P. Farrell

4 / Dialogue in Lyric Narrative 79

Paul Friedrich

Part II DIALOGUE BETWEEN WORKS

- 5 / Dialogics of the Lyric: A Symposium on Wordsworth's
"Westminster Bridge" and "Beauteous Evening" 101
Don H. Bialostosky
- 6 / Involvement as Dialogue: Linguistic Theory and the Relation between Conversational and Literary Discourse 137
Deborah Tannen
- 7 / "The Bard I Quote From": Byron, Bakhtin, and the Appropriation of Voices 158
Michael Macovski
- 8 / Marxism, Romanticism, and Postmodernism: An American
Case History 174
Anne Mack and Jay Rome

Part III DIALOGUE BETWEEN SPEAKERS, READERS, AND AUTHORS

- 9 / The Essay in English: Readers and Writers in Dialogue 195
Shirley Brice Heath
- 10 / Bakhtin and Beautiful Science: The Paradox of Cultural Relativity Revisited 215
Michael Holquist
- 11 / Conversation as Dialogue 237
John R. Searle
- 12 / Extracts from a Heteroglossary 256
Gary Saul Morson with Caryl Emerson