

Contents

KAREN R. LAWRENCE

Introduction: The Cultural Politics of Canons 1

PART 1. The Politics of Genre

LILLIAN S. ROBINSON

Canon Fathers and Myth Universe 23

CELESTE M. SCHENCK

“Corinna Sings”: Women Poets and the Politics of Genre 37

MARTIN GREEN

Adventurers Stake Their Claim: The Adventure Tale’s
Bid for Status, 1876–1914 70

ROBERT L. CASERIO

The Novel as a Novel Experiment in Statement:
The Anticanonical Example of H. G. Wells 88

PART 2. Cultural Legitimation: The Cases of

Lady Chatterley’s Lover and The Waves

RACHEL BOWLBY

“But She Would Learn Something from Lady Chatterley”:
The Obscene Side of the Canon 113

JANE MARCUS

Britannia Rules The Waves 136

PART 3. Postcolonial Configurations

MARILYN REIZBAUM

Canonical Double Cross: Scottish and Irish
Women's Writing 165

LOUISE YELIN

Decolonizing the Novel: Nadine Gordimer's
A Sport of Nature and British Literary Traditions 191

DEREK ATTRIDGE

Oppressive Silence: J. M. Coetzee's Foe and the Politics of the Canon 212

PATRICK MCGEE

Texts between Worlds: African Fiction as Political Allegory 239

GAY WILENTZ

English Is a Foreign Anguish: Caribbean Writers and the Disruption of the Colonial Canon 261

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS 279

INDEX 281