

Table of Contents

Kirsten KRICK-AIGNER / Marc-Oliver SCHUSTER Introduction	9
---	---

Sascha FEINSTEIN Jazz as a Liberator of Language	19
---	----

Yaak KARSUNKE bloody Mary	31
-------------------------------------	----

Judith Nika PFEIFER Poems	33
------------------------------	----

Pre- and Post-World War I

Matthijs DE RIDDER “This Music Has Arisen from the Trenches”: Jazz as a Measure of Modernity in European Literature after World War I	43
---	----

Wolfgang LAMPRECHT From the Cakewalk to the Foxtrot – Two-stepping between Dance and Propaganda: The Sound of World War I	55
---	----

Konrad NOWAKOWSKI A Racketeers’ Music? Reactions to Early Jazz in Vienna	71
---	----

Pascale COHEN-AVENEL Jazz and the Revolution of Dance Music in Dance-Manuals (Koebner, Pollack, Jaffé, Baresel) between 1913 and 1926	123
---	-----

The Interwar Period

Kirsten KRICK-AIGNER “Because she’s got to dance”: Jazz Dance in the Literary Imagination of German Expressionist Women Poets	151
---	-----

Luigia TESSITORE “Sprachen-Ragtime”: Jazz Influences on Walter Mehring’s Poems for Cabaret	177
--	-----

Sebastian KLUGE Delightful Orgies: An Invitation for a New Discussion on Thomas Mann and Jazz	185
---	-----

Fanny OPITZ “Bäbä, tu. Bäbä, tut!”: Jazz and Literature in Symphonie für Jazz by René Schickele	197
--	-----

Veronika HOFENEDER Syncope and Inflation: The Rhythm of Austrian Literature in the Interwar Period	207
Primus-Heinz KUCHER “Ein Durcheinander mit viel Jazzmusik”: 1928 as a Case Study on Controversial-productive Jazz (Culture) Reception in the Viennese Feuilleton, Literature, Music, and Theater	221
Helga SCHRECKENBERGER Jazz and the “New Woman”: Lili Grün’s Novel Alles ist Jazz (1933)	235
1945 – Present
Gregory DIVERS “legt los, leute, haut rein”: US-American Jazz in German Poetry since 1945	247
Marc-Oliver SCHUSTER The Transnational Spin in Marginal Jazz Passages in GDR Literature	263
Harald JUSTIN Hearing and Writing in the Staircase of History: Remarks on an Imaginary Meeting between Kafka and Borneman	285
Andrew W. HURLEY “Always within reach, trumpet gold, interpretation-free, above suspicion”? Günter Grass, Jazz, and Literature	311
Thomas ANTONIC “God’s empty chair”, or: You Can’t Dig It – Jazz & Poetry of the Beat Generation and Beat-inspired Jazz & Poetry in Austria	331
Stephan RICHTER Performing Jazz and Poetry: Musings about a Fictitious Concert	349
Helmut NEUNDLINGER Performance – Pattern – Improvisation: The Relationship between Body, Sound, and Text in Christian Loidl’s Poetry	357
Lina UŽUKAUSKAITĖ Jazz in Lithuanian Literature	365
Virgil MIHAIU Global & Local, Words & Jazz in Today’s World	383
Contributors	425
Index	431