

THE JEWS AND BRITISH
ROMANTICISM

POLITICS, RELIGION, CULTURE

Edited by

Sheila A. Spector

palgrave
macmillan

C O N T E N T S

Illustrations	ix
Contributors	xi
Introduction: The Politics of Religion Sheila A. Spector	1
Part I British Culture and the Jews
1 Mr. Punch at the Great Exhibition: Stereotypes of Yankee and Hebrew in 1851 Frank Felsenstein	17
2 Passing for a Jew, On Stage and Off: Stage Jews and Cross-Dressing Gentiles in Georgian England Michael Ragussis	41
3 William Blake and the Jewish Swedenborgians Marsha Keith Schuchard	61
4 Blake and the Book of Numbers: Joshua the Giant Killer and the Tears of Balaam R. Paul Yoder	87
Part II Jewish Writers and British Culture
5 Following the Muse: Inspiration, Prophecy, and Deference in the Poetry of Emma Lyon (1788–1870), Anglo-Jewish Poet Michael Scrivener	105
6 Identity, Diaspora, and the Secular Voice in the Works of Isaac D’Israeli Stuart Peterfreund	127
7 Anglo-Jewish Identity and the Politics of Cultivation in Hazlitt, Aguilar, and Disraeli Judith W. Page	149

8	Charlotte Dacre's Zofloya : The Gothic Demonization of the Jew	165
	Diane Long Hoeveler
Part III The Jews and British Romanticism Outside of England
9	Commerce, Concern, and Christianity: Britain and Middle-Eastern Jewry in the Mid-Nineteenth Century	181
	Reeva Spector Simon
10	Jewish Translations of British Romantic Literature (1753–1858): A Preliminary Bibliography	195
	Sheila A. Spector
11	The Reader as Witness: "City of the Killings" and Bialik's Romantic Historiography	211
	Lilach Lachman
Part IV Coda: Coleridge and Judaica
12	Coleridge's Misreading of Spinoza	233
	Stanley J. Spector
13	Mendelssohn and Coleridge on Words, Thoughts, and Things	245
	Frederick Burwick
14	Standing at Mont Blanc: Coleridge and Midrash	275
	Lloyd Guy Davies
	Bibliography	299
	Index	323