

Marcin Krygier/Liliana Sikorska (eds.)

To Make his Englishh
Sweete upon his Tonge

PETER LANG

Europäischer Verlag der Wissenschaften

Contents

Language .....	7
1. Merja Stenroos (University College of Stavanger) A Middle English mess of fricative spellings: Reflections on thorn, yogh and their rivals .....	9
2. Rafal Molencki (University of Silesia, Katowice) On the rise of the temporal conjunction before in Medieval English .....	37
3. Richard Ingham (School of English, UCE Birmingham) A structural constraint on multiple negation in Late Middle and Early Modern English .....	55
Literature .....	69
4. Stephen K. Wright (The Catholic University of America, Washington, DC) What's so "English" about medieval English drama? An East Anglian Miracle Play and its continental counterpart .....	71
5. Joyce Coleman (University of Oklahoma, Norman) The making and breaking of language in Sir Thomas Malory's Morte Darthur .....	93
6. Harold Kaylor (Troy State University, Troy, AL) Chaucer's Troilus and Criseyde and Boethius's Consolation of Philosophy .....	111
7. Rafal Boryslawski (University of Silesia, Katowice) Sirith-na-Gig? Dame Sirith and the fabliau hags as textual analogues to the Sheela-figures .....	121