

BRITISH ASIAN FICTION

Framing the Contemporary

Edited by Neil Murphy and Wai-chew Sim

CAMBRIDGE
PRESS

AMHERST, NEW YORK

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xv
Chapter 1: Introduction by Neil Murphy and Wai-chew Sim	1
Chapter 2: Tariq Ali's Islam Quintet by Reed Way Dasenbrock	11
Chapter 3: The Politics of Imagining the Other in Hanif Kureishi's The Buddha of Suburbia by Wendy O'Shea-Meddour	33
Chapter 4: Homegrown Terrorism: The Bildungsroman of Hanif Kureishi, the Author and His Characters by Feroza Jussawalla	55
Chapter 5: Faking It: Simulation and Self-Fashioning in Hari Kunzru's Transmission by Alan Robinson	77
Chapter 6: Siting Speech: The Politics of Imagining the Other in Meera Syal's Anita and Me by Leila Neti	97

- Chapter 7: Cultural Conservatism and the Sites of Transformation in Meera Syal's *Life Isn't All Ha Ha Hee Hee
by Dave Gunning 119
- Chapter 8: Narrative as Lifeline: Imagining Black British and Sri Lankan Community in A. Sivanandan's *When Memory Dies
by Sharanya Jayawickrama 141
- Chapter 9: "Gorged-out Cadavers of Hills": Parodying Narratives of Alterity and Transformation in *The Flame Tree
by Tamara S. Wagner 163
- Chapter 10: In Between Tagore and Brecht: Leaving and Returning in Sunetra Gupta's *A Sin of Colour
by Joel Kuortti 183
- Chapter 11: Towards a Notion of the Self, Towards a Notion of Reality: Narrative Traditions in Moonlight into Marzipan as Ontological Quests
by Ronie Parciack 197
- Chapter 12: "Representative" of British Asian Fiction? The Critical Reception of Monica Ali's *Brick Lane
by Ruth Maxey 217

- Chapter 13: Cultural Misrecognition: A Post-911 Rereading of Timothy Mo's *Sour Sweet
by Kenneth Chan 237
- Chapter 14: "Young, Gifted and...Brown!": British Asians Getting Real in Atima Srivastava's *Transmission
by Sheila Ghose 255
- Chapter 15: Marine Biology and Scientific Discourse: Gunesequera's Reef as Postcolonial Resistance
by Gerd Bayer 273
- Chapter 16: "Change but the Name and the Tale Is of You": Narration and Agency in Romesh Gunesequera's *Heaven's Edge
by Cordula Lemke 289
- Chapter 17: Like Hours Through The Sandglass: Romesh Gunesequera and the Postcolonial Thermodynamic
by J. Edward Mallot 309
- Chapter 18: Aesthetic Innovation and Radical Nostalgia in Kazuo Ishiguro's *When We Were Orphans
by Wai-chew Sim 329
- Chapter 19: The Literalisation of Allegory in Salman Rushdie's *Shalimar the Clown
by Neil Murphy 351

Chapter 20: Gothic Illuminations of the Postmodern and Postcolonial Conditions in Salman Rushdie's Fury
by Andrew Ng	365
Bibliography	385
List of Contributors	411
Index	415