

Beyond Scotland

New Contexts for Twentieth- Century Scottish Literature

Edited by
Gerard Carruthers
David Goldie & Alastair Renfrew

Amsterdam - New York, NY 2004

Contents

Contributors	7
Acknowledgements	9
Gerard Carruthers, David Goldie and Alastair Renfrew Introduction	11
Douglas Gifford Re-mapping Renaissance in Modern Scottish Literature	17
David Goldie Scotland, Britishness, and the First World War	39
Alexander Mackay MacDiarmid and Russia Revisited	59
Edwin Morgan Flying with Tatlin, Clouds in Trousers: A Look at Russian Avant-Gardes	95
Sarah M. Dunnigan The Return of the Repressed	111
David Miller Reflections on Lukács and Adorno: Some Co-ordinates for the “Scottish Literary Tradition”	133
Edna Longley The Whereabouts of Literature	151
Gerard Carruthers “Creation Festers in Me”: Calvinism and Cosmopolitanism in Jenkins, Spark and Gray	167
Richard Price La Grille : Contemporary Scottish Poetry and France	185
Randall Stevenson A Postmodern Scotland?	209
Cairns Craig Scotland and Hybridity	229
Index	255