

CULTURES IN CONTACT

World Migrations in the Second Millennium

Dirk Hoerder

Duke University Press Durham & London 2002

Contents

List of Maps and Figures	xiii
Acknowledgments and Dedication	xvii
Contexts: An Introductory Note to Readers	xix

I	Worlds in Motion, Cultures in Contact	1
1.1	People on the Move—Changes over Ten Centuries	1
1.2	Changing Paradigms and New Approaches	8
	New Paradigms	10
	Parameters of Mobility and Migration	14
1.3	Migrants as Actors and a Systems Approach	15
	Migration Systems: A Comprehensive Theoretical Perspective	16
	The Mesolevel Approach to Migrant Decision Making	19

PART I The Judeo-Christian-Islamic Mediterranean and Eurasian Worlds to the 1500s 23

2	Antecedents: Migration and Population Changes in the Mediterranean-Asian Worlds	27
2.1	The Afro-Eurasian World	28
2.2	Over Continents and Oceans: Cross-Cultural Encounters	30
2.3	Pre-Plague Migrations in Mediterranean and Transalpine Europe	38
	Mediterranean Slavery	40
	The Jewish Diaspora	42
	Norman Societies	44
	Crusaders and “Frankish” Settlement in Palestine	45
	Muslims in al-Andalus	48
	Conquest and Resettlement on the Iberian Peninsula	51
	Settlement in the “Wendish” Slavic Territories	53
2.4	Population Growth and Decline	55

- 3 Continuities: Mobility and Migration from the Eleventh to the Sixteenth Century 59
 - 3.1 Itinerancy at the Top of Dynastic Society 60
 - Cosmopolitan Nobles and Their Households 60
 - Itinerant Administrators 61
 - Warfaring Mercenaries 62
 - 3.2 Migrations of Rural People and Servants 65
 - Migration and Relocation in Agriculture 68
 - Laborers and Servants 71
 - Wayfaring Men and Women 72
 - 3.3 The Urban World of Commerce and Production 75
 - Merchant Routes and Trader Settlements 76
 - Marriage and Mobility among the Common People 79
 - Traveling Journeymen and Out-of-Town Maids 81
 - Masons' Lodges and Miners' Migrations 84
 - 3.4 Pilgrims' and Clerics' Wanderings Stimulated by Devotion and Curiosity 86

- 4 The End of Intercivilizational Contact and the Economics of Religious Expulsions 92
 - 4.1 The End of Coexistence: Expulsion of Muslims 93
 - 4.2 Continuing Persecution: Anti-Jewish Pogroms and Expulsions 95
 - 4.3 Internecine Strife: Christians against Christians 101

- 5 Ottoman Society, Europe, and the Beginnings of Colonial Contact 108
 - 5.1 Ethnic Coexistence in Ottoman Society 109
 - Migration and the Peoples of the Empire 110
 - The Nonethnic Structures of a Multiethnic Empire 114
 - 5.2 Many-Cultured Renaissance Europe 117
 - Scholars' and Artists' Trans-European Migrations 118
 - The Medieval and Early Modern Concept of "Natio" 120
 - From Dynastic to Territorial State: Centralization versus Localism 122
 - 5.3 From the Iberian Peninsula to Sub-Saharan Africa and across the Atlantic 125
 - African Slavery in Europe 126
 - Expansion to Sub-Saharan Africa and Asia 129
 - Early Contact with the Americas 131

PART II Other Worlds and European Colonialism to the Eighteenth Century 135

- 6 Africa and the Slave Migration Systems 139
 - 6.1 Migration and the Mixing of Peoples in Sub-Saharan Africa to the Sixteenth Century 140
 - 6.2 Merchant Communities and Ethnogenesis 145
 - 6.3 Changes: The Atlantic Slave Trade to the Nineteenth Century 149
 - 6.4 Continuities: Slavery in the Islamic and Asian Worlds 157
 - 6.5 The Transformation of Slavery in Atlantic and Muslim Africa 160

- 7 Trade-Posts and Colonies in the World of the Indian Ocean 163
 - 7.1 Migrations of Peoples and Merchants before European Contact 163
 - 7.2 Parsees, Jews, Armenians, and Other Traders 175
 - 7.3 Portuguese Trade-Posts, Spanish Manila, Chinese Merchants 176
 - 7.4 Slavery and Eurasian Society under Dutch Colonial Rule 181
 - 7.5 Colonizing Cores, Global Reach, and the British Shift to Territorial Rule 183

- 8 Latin America: Population Collapse and Resettlement 187
 - 8.1 Peoples of the Americas in 1492—Demographic and Cultural Collapse 187
 - 8.2 Iberian Migration and Settlement 191
 - 8.3 Early Exploitation and Enslavement in the Caribbean 194
 - 8.4 The First Transpacific Migration System 199
 - 8.5 Ethnogenesis in Latin America 200
 - 8.6 Internal Migrations in the Colonial Societies 205

- 9 Fur Empires and Colonies of Agricultural Settlement 211
 - 9.1 Fur Empires in North America and Siberia 212
 - 9.2 North America: Native Peoples and Colonization 215
 - 9.3 Forced, Bound, and Free Migrations 216
 - 9.4 Across the North American Continent: Settlement Migration in Stages 220
 - 9.5 Other Settlement Colonies: The African Cape and Australia 227

- 10 Forced Labor Migration in and to the Americas 234
 - 10.1 The Forced Immobility and Mobility of Native Labor in Spanish America 235

10.2	The Atlantic Slave Trade and African Slavery in Spanish America	240
10.3	Enslaved and Free Africans in Portuguese Brazil	244
10.4	Slave-Based Societies in the Caribbean	248
10.5	African Slavery in Anglo-America	253
11	Migration and Conversion: Worldviews, Material Culture, Racial Hierarchies	257
11.1	Euro-Atlantic Society Reconstructs Its Worldview	259
11.2	Material Culture in Everyday Life	264
11.3	New Peoples and Global Racism	270
PART III Intercontinental Migration Systems to the Nineteenth Century 275
12	Europe: Internal Migrations from the Seventeenth to the Nineteenth Century	277
12.1	Continuities and New Patterns from Medieval to Modern Migrations	278
12.2	Rural Colonization and Enclosure	281
	Colonization of Marginal Lands Nearby	283
	Colonization of Distant Vacated Lands	284
	Enclosure and the Mobilization of Labor: The English Case	287
12.3	Regional Labor Migration Systems, 1650s to 1830s	288
	Labor Migration Systems, 1650s to 1750s	289
	Labor Migration Systems, 1750s to 1830s	293
12.4	Urbanization and Migrations	294
	Artisans, Merchants, and Refugees	296
	Case Studies: Immigrants in the Cities	301
12.5	Bourgeois Revolution, Nation, and Political Exile	303
13	The Russo-Siberian Migration System	306
13.1	Central Asian Peoples and Expansion into Siberia	307
13.2	Rural Colonization and Urban Migrations, 1700-1861	309
	The South Russian Plains, the Urals, and the Don Basin	311
	Migration and the Growth of the Cities	312
13.3	Peasants into Proletarians: Internal Migration in Industrializing Russia after Emancipation	315
13.4	The Nineteenth-Century Siberian Frontier and Chinese Mongolia	319

- 13.5 Leaving the Orbit of the Russo-Siberian System before 1914 323
 - Polish Rebels, Russian Revolutionaries, and Women Students 323
 - The Emigration of Russian-Germans and Mennonites 326
 - Labor Migrations and the Jewish Pale of Settlement 326
- 13.6 The Soviet Union: The “Other America” or “Bolshevik Dictatorship” 328

- 14 The Proletarian Mass Migrations in the Atlantic Economies 331
 - 14.1 From Subsistence to Cash: Family Economies in Crisis 332
 - Core and Periphery: The Division of Europe 333
 - Early Surplus Labor: Britain and the Germanies 336
 - Working-Class Diasporas from the Periphery: Irish People, Poles,
Jews, and Italians 339
 - Village Economies in Worldwide Labor Markets 343
 - 14.2 The “Proletarian Mass Migration” 344
 - Industrial Europe: Immigrant Societies, Multiethnic Cities 346
 - North American Immigrant and Afro-American Migrations 351
 - Migration to Dependent Economies in Latin America 357
 - 14.3 Transcultural Identities and Acculturation in the Age of Nation-States 361

- 15 The Asian Contract Labor System (1830s to 1920s) and Transpacific Migration 366
 - 15.1 Traditional and New Patterns of Bondage 367
 - Internal and Colonizer-Imposed Causes of Migration in Three Societies 369
 - 15.2 The Asian Contract Labor System 376
 - 15.3 Internal Labor Migration: The Example of India under British Rule 380
 - 15.4 “Coolie” and “Passenger” Migrations in Asia and to Africa 384
 - Labor and Community in East and South Africa 384
 - Free Migrants, Indentured Workers, and Imperial Auxiliaries
in Southeast Asia 389
 - 15.5 The Second Pacific Migration System 393
 - Migration to Hawai’i 393
 - Contract Labor in the Caribbean and South America 394
 - Free and Bound Migrations to North America 398
 - 15.6 Racism and Exclusion 400

16	Imperial Interest Groups and Subaltern Cultural Assertion	405
16.1	Colonial Spaces in Africa	407
16.2	From the African Diaspora to the Black Atlantic	413
16.3	The Sociology of "White" Imperial Migrations	419
	Men of Commercial, State, and Cultural Gatekeeper Elites	420
	Colonizer Masculinity	423
	Colonial Men: Auxiliaries and Elites	424
16.4	The Anthropology of Empire: Gender, Sex, and Children	426
	"Daughters of the Empire" or "Imperial Mothers"	427
	Intimate Life and the Construction of the Others	429
	Imperial Men, Access to Women, and Children of Mixed Origin	430
	The Bodies of Laboring Men and Women	433
16.5	Global Perspectives: Subaltern Cultures and Racialized Diasporas	436
	New Laborers and Racialized Diasporas	437
	Proletarian Mass Migrations and Labor Militancies	439
	PART IV Twentieth-Century Changes	443
17	Forced Labor and Refugees in the Northern Hemisphere to the 1950s	445
17.1	Power Struggles and the Un-Mixing of Peoples	446
	The End of Ethnic Coexistence in Ottoman Turkey	447
	War and Expulsion: Central and Eastern Europe	450
	Peoples in the Soviet Union: Empire and Autonomy	454
	Political Emigration and Jewish Flight under Fascism	456
17.2	The New Labor Regimentation	461
	Free Migration and Forced Labor in the USSR	463
	From Forced Labor to Slave Labor in Wartime Germany	468
17.3	Population Transfers, 1939-45 and After	472
	Population Transfers and Prisoners of War up to 1945	473
	Flight, Expulsion, and Migration in Postwar Europe	478
17.4	Imperialism, Forced Labor, and Relocation in Asia	480
	Imperial Japan and Civil-War China to the 1930s	481
	Forced Labor, War, Refugees	483
18	Between the Old and the New, 1920s to 1950s	489
18.1	Peasant Settlement from Canada to Manchuria	490
18.2	Diaspora to Homeland and Vice Versa: Jewish Migrants, Arab Refugees	496

18.3	Decolonization and Reverse Migrations	499
18.4	Aftermath or Continuity: Racialized Labor Mobility in South Africa	504
19	New Migration Systems since the 1960s	508
19.1	Migrant Strategies and Root Causes	509
	Voluntary Migrants	509
	Refugees and Root Causes	513
	The Feminization of Migration	517
19.2	Western and Southern Europe: Labor Migrants as Guest Workers and Foreigners	519
19.3	Multicultural and Multicolored Immigration to North America	523
19.4	Migration in and from Dependent Economies: The Caribbean, Central America, and South America	526
19.5	From Asia Outward: The Third Phase of Pacific Migrations	532
19.6	Intra-Asian Migrations and Diasporas	536
19.7	Labor Migration to the Oil Economies of the Persian Gulf	546
19.8	Intra-African Labor and Refugee Migrations	550
19.9	Eastern Europe: Internal Migrations and Post-1989 Changes	559
20	Intercultural Strategies and Closed Doors in the 1990s	564
20.1	From Multiethnic Polities to the Un-Mixing of Peoples into Nation-States and Decolonization	565
20.2	Economic Power or Global Justice: Modern Migrations	571
20.3	Citizenship in a Postnational World versus Global Apartheid	574
20.4	Multiple Identities and Transcultural Everyday Lives	578
	Notes	583
	Selected Bibliography	717
	1. General Works and Atlases	717
	2. Theory and Methodology: Recent Approaches	719
	3. Medieval and Early Modern Migrations	720
	4. Migrations from the Seventeenth to the Nineteenth Century	724
	General	724
	Africa, including the Slave Trade and the Black Diaspora	725
	Asia, including Contract Labor, West Asia (the Eastern Mediterranean), Hawai'i, and Australasia	727
	Latin America and the Americas as a Whole	730
	Anglo America	732
	Europe, including Russia	735

5. Twentieth-Century Migrations to the 1950s	739
6. Migrations and Minorities since the 1950s	741
Sources for Maps and Figures	747
Index	755