

Rewriting the history of madness

Studies in Foucault's Histoire de la folie

Edited by
Arthur Still and Irving Velody

 Routledge
Taylor & Francis Group

LONDON AND NEW YORK

Contents

Notes on contributors	vii
Preface	x
Introduction	1
Arthur Still and Irving Velody
Part I Reading Foucault
1 Histoire de la folie : an unknown book by Michel Foucault Colin Gordon	19
Part II Responses
2 Foucault and the psychiatric practitioner Peter Barham	45
3 Madness, medicine and the state Paul Bové	51
4 The two readings of Histoire de la folie in France Robert Castel	65
5 'The lively sensibility of the Frenchman': some reflections on the place of France in Foucault's Histoire de la folie Jan Goldstein	69
6 Foucault, history and madness Dominick LaCapra	78
7 Foucault, ambiguity and the rhetoric of historiography Allan McGill	86
8 Reading and believing: on the reappraisal of Michel Foucault H. C. Erik Midelfort	105
9 Misunderstanding Foucault Geoffrey Pearson	110
10 Foucault's great confinement Roy Porter	119

vi	Rewriting the history of madness
11	Foucault, rhetoric and translation: figures of madness Anthony Pugh	126
12	Of madness itself: Histoire de la folie and the object of psychiatric history Nikolas Rose	142
13	A failure to communicate? On the reception of Foucault's Histoire de la folie by Anglo-American historians Andrew Scull	150
Part III Review
14	Rewriting the history of misreading Colin Gordon	167
15	Michel Foucault's Madness and Civilization : a selective bibliography with critical notations Mark Erickson	185
	Name index	218
	Subject index	224