

Contents

List of Illustrations / ix

Introduction	Between Guantánamo and GTMO / 1
Prologue	Regional Politics, 1898, and the Platt Amendment / 19
1	The Case of Kid Chicle: Military Expansion and Labor Competition, 1939–1945 / 29
2	“We Are Real Democrats”: Legal Debates and Cold War Unionism before Castro, 1940–1954 / 61
3	Good Neighbors, Good Revolutionaries, 1940–1958 / 100
4	A “Ticklish” Position: Revolution, Loyalty, and Crisis, 1959–1964 / 144
5	Contract Workers, Exiles, and Commuters: Neocolonial and Postmodern Labor Arrangements / 191
Epilogue	Post 9/11: Empire and Labor Redux / 215
	Appendix: Guantánamo Civil Registry, 1921–1958 / 229
	Notes / 235
	Selected Bibliography / 293
	Acknowledgments / 309
	Index / 313

Illustrations

FIGURES

1. Early postcard representing local fruit sellers in Guantánamo Bay. 20
2. "Hoisting the Flag at Guantánamo, June 12, 1898." 22
3. World War II-era postcard of downtown Caimanera. 40
4. Caricature of Lino Lemes García, August 1955. 47
5. Lorenzo Salomón describing being struck by a U.S. officer, October 15, 1954. 63
6. Eusebio Mujal, political advertisement, May 1948. 77
7. U.S. Admiral Taylor at a local Guantánamo function, June 1955. 106
8. World War II-era postcard of U.S. sailors on liberty arriving in Guantánamo. 107
9. World War II-era postcard of a bar in Caimanera. 108
10. Campesino rejecting U.S. rent for the naval base, July 17, 1964. 147
11. Cuban base workers receiving pay, February 1, 1960. 159
12. East boundary fence of Guantánamo naval base, January 11, 1961. 163

X ILLUSTRATIONS

- | | | |
|-----|---|-----|
| 13. | Cuban base workers on the Guantánamo naval base,
February 1, 1960. | 165 |
| 14. | “Guard and Sentry Dog Patrol Border,” March 1961. | 170 |
| 15. | The Plaza of the Revolution in Guantánamo, April 2006. | 189 |

MAPS

- | | | |
|----|---|------------|
| 1. | Cuba. | xi |
| 2. | Guantánamo and the U.S. naval base in
Guantánamo Bay (GTMO). | xii |