

Contents

Series Editors' Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	ix
Notes on contributors	xi

Introduction: Rethinking Mobility in Francophone Women's Writing Kate Averis and Isabel Hollis-Touré	1
--	---

Part I. Familial Frames, Transnational Tropes

Chapter 1: Strangers in Their Own Homes: Displaced Women in Léonora Miano's L'Intérieur de la nuit and Contours du jour qui vient Isabel Hollis-Touré	17
Chapter 2: Migrant Writing in Quebec: Female Mobility in Kim Thúy's Ru Jeanette den Toonder	33
Chapter 3: Gendering Migrant Mobility in Fatou Diome's Novels Christopher Hogarth	54
Chapter 4: 'Exilées de famille': Travelling Texts by Worldwide Women Writers Alison Rice	71

Part II. Rewriting Identities as Displaced Subjects

Chapter 5: Travelling in Trouble: Vagabondage in Isabelle Eberhardt's Travel Writing Dúnlaith Bird	93
---	----

Chapter 6:	Reappropriating 'Exile'? Transculturality between Word and Image in Leïla Sebbar's Mes Algéries en France Jane Hiddleston	111
Chapter 7:	Education and Exile in the Writings of Maïssa Bey and Malika Mokeddem Siobhán McIlvanney	131
Chapter 8:	Cross-Atlantic Mobility: The Experience of Two Shores in Fatou Diome's Le Ventre de l'Atlantique Boukary Sawadogo	153
Chapter 9:	Restarting the Stopped Clock of Time: Rethinking Mobility in Edwidge Danticat's Non-Fiction Bonnie Thomas	169

Part III. Future Directions in Women's Mobility

Chapter 10:	Mobility, Motility, Gender: Travelling Haiti Charles Forsdick	191
Chapter 11:	'Things Coming From Every Direction': Leslie Kaplan's 'Cubist' Explorations Anna-Louise Milne	212
Chapter 12:	Ectopic Literature: The Emergence of a New Transnational Literary Space in Europe in the Works of Eva Almassy and Rouja Lazarova Margarita Alfaro	232
Afterword:	Women on the Move Mildred Mortimer	249
Index		269