

INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY IN THE BIO-MEDICAL AGE CHALLENGES FOR ASIA

Christopher Heath
Anselm Kamperman Sanders
(eds.)

Instituto de Estudos Europeus de Macau /
Institute of European Studies of Macao

Max Planck Institute for Foreign and International
Patent, Copyright and Competition Law

Kluwer Law International
THE HAGUE/LONDON/NEW YORK

Contents

Detailed Table of Contents	vii
Preface	xiii
About the Authors	xv
PART 1: Plant Varieties, Bio-technology and Biodiversity
1 Plant Varieties, Biodiversity and Access Rights Christopher Heath	3
2 Protection of Plant Varieties in Greater China John Mo	35
3 Plant Varieties and Access Rights in Asia and the South Jade Donavanik	49
4 Perspectives on Patenting Biological Material Margaret Llewelyn	73
5 Biological Inventions and the Problem of Passive Infringement Brad Sherman	105
PART 2: New Developments in the Scope and Limits of Patent Protection
6 Patent Claim Interpretation – An Introduction Jan Brinkhof	119
7 Claim Interpretation and the Festo Case Martin Adelman	125
8 Equivalents in Europe Willem Hoyng	147
9 Patents – Antitrust, Compulsory Licensing and Research Exemptions Anselm Kamperman Sanders	163
PART 3: Parallel Imports and International Trade
10 The Economics of Parallel Imports Kerrin Vautier	185

11	Parallel Imports and IP Rights with Specific Regards to Macao Augusto Teixeira Garcia	219
PART 4: Utility Models as an Alternative to Patents?
12	The Economic Efficacy of Utility Model Protection Uma Suthersanen	231
13	Utility Models in China Yahong Li	257
14	Utility Models in Thailand Weerawit Weeraworawit	269
	Index	277