

Anti-Dumping and Anti-Trust Issues in Free-trade Areas

GABRIELLE MARCEAU

CLARENDON PRESS · OXFORD
1994

Contents

Table of Cases	xviii
Table of International Legislation and Agreements	xxiv
List of Abbreviations	xxxv
A Note on the GATT 1994/WTO	xxxix
Introduction	1

PART I. INTERNATIONAL REGULATION OF DUMPING AND OTHER RESTRICTIVE BUSINESS PRACTICES

1. Economic, Legal, and Strategic Considerations on Dumping Practices and Anti-Dumping Laws	7
1. Introduction	7
2. The Economics of Dumping	11
2.1. The Classic Definition of Dumping: Transnational Price Discrimination Practice	11
2.2. A Pragmatic Definition of Dumping: Transnational Sale Below Cost	13
3. Welfare Impacts of Dumping for the Importing and Exporting Countries	15
3.1. The Impact of Dumping in the Importing Country	16
3.2. The Impact of Dumping in the Exporting Country	18
4. Existing Tests Proposed to Domestic Courts to Identify Predatory Behaviour	19
4.1. Short-Run Cost-Based Rules	19
4.2. Long-Term Cost-Based Rules	20
4.3. Output Expansion Rules	20
4.4. Rules Governing Price Rises	21
4.5. The Rule-of-Reason Test	21
4.6. Tests Suggested by European Commentators	22
4.7. 'Two-Tier' Rules	22
4.8. No Rule	23
4.9. Conclusion on Tests of Predation	23
5. International Predation	24
6. The Law on Dumping	26
6.1. The GATT and National Anti-Dumping Laws	26
6.2. What the GATT Authorizes	27

6.3. Circumstances Where a Response to Dumping is Permitted: Injury Caused to Domestic Industry	35
6.4. Anti-Dumping Duties	41
6.5. Conclusions on Anti-Dumping Laws	42
7. The Impact of Anti-Dumping Actions	43
8. Strategic, Political, and Social Considerations on Dumping	45
8.1. The Interface Theory	46
8.2. The Possibility of a Threat to Security and Proposals for Dealing with it	47
8.3. Industrial Policy and Social Considerations	49
9. Alternatives to the Use of Anti-Dumping Actions	50
10. Conclusions	51
2. The International Control of Business Practices other than Dumping	58
1. Introduction	58
2. Attempts by Various Organizations to Co-ordinate Actions against Restrictive Business Practices	59
2.1. The League of Nations	59
2.2. The International Labour Organization	60
2.3. The International Trade Organization	61
2.4. Attempts by the OEEC	63
2.5. Attempts by the ECOSOC	63
2.6. New Zealand's Proposal to Amend GATT Article VI	64
2.7. An Attempt by the Contracting Parties to the GATT, 1958-60	64
3. The Extraterritorial Application of National Laws on Restrictive Business Practices	65
3.1. The Position Taken by the US Authorities	67
3.2. The Position Taken by the Canadian Authorities	70
3.3. The Position Taken by the Mexican Authorities	72
3.4. The Position Taken by the European Authorities	72
3.5. Jurisdictional Defences and Exceptions to the Extraterritorial Reach of Anti-Trust and Competition Laws	74
3.6. Conclusions on the Issue of Extraterritoriality	76
4. Increased Collaboration and Co-operation	77
4.1. Recommendations of the Council of the OECD	77
4.2. Bilateral Arrangements for Co-operation in Competition Matters	79
4.3. OECD Declaration on Multinationals	86
4.4. The UNCTAD Code on Restrictive Business Practices	88

4.5. The ICC Code on Investment	89
4.6. Other Codes of Conduct	90
5. The Legal Value of these UNCTAD, OECD, and ICC Instruments	91
6. The European Proposal for Positive Comity	93
7. Conclusion and Proposals	95

PART II. DICHOTOMIES OF TREATMENTS BETWEEN DOMESTIC AND FOREIGN RESTRICTIVE BUSINESS PRACTICES AND NATIONAL ATTEMPTS TO RECONCILE AND CO-ORDINATE THESE DIFFERENT CONSIDERATIONS

3. Anti-Dumping Regulation Contravenes the Obligation of National Treatment of the GATT and the NAFTA	103
1. Introduction	103
2. The Obligations of Most-Favoured-Nation Treatment of the GATT and the Right to Impose Discriminatory Anti-Dumping Measures	104
2.1. 'Treatment no Less Favourable than that Accorded to Like Products of National Origin'	106
3. Evidence of the Different Treatments in Standards between Anti-Dumping Laws, and Anti-Discrimination and Anti-Predation Laws	109
3.1. Comparison of 'Substantive' Standards of Anti-Dumping Regulation with those of Domestic Laws on Predation and Price Discrimination	110
3.2. Comparison between the 'Procedural' Elements of Anti-Dumping and Competition Laws	114
3.3. Conclusion	117
4. Differences between National Systems	117
4.1. Legal Cultures and Legal Traditions	118
4.2. Common Law vs. Civil Law	119
4.3. Different Schools of Thought in the USA	123
4.4. The European Conception of the Role of Competition	124
5. The Different Policy Objectives of Anti-Dumping and Anti-Trust Laws	126
5.1. Interest-Group Politics	127
6. Conclusion	129
4. Co-ordination of Anti-Dumping and Competition Considerations at the Domestic Level	133
1. Introduction	133

2. The Context for the Consideration of Competition Variables in Anti-Dumping Determinations and the work of the OECD	134
3. Pressures to Reduce Anti-Dumping Duties	138
3.1. The EEC System	138
3.2. The Canadian System	146
3.3. The US System	153
3.4. The Mexican System	155
4. Anti-Trust Liability in Anti-Dumping Actions	156
5. Trade Measures for Competition Purposes	158
6. Conclusion	159

PART III. EFFORTS AT CO-ORDINATION OF ANTI-TRUST AND ANTI-DUMPING ACTIONS WITHIN FREE-TRADE AREAS

5. Political, Economic, and Legal Aspects of Free-Trade Areas	167
1. Introduction	167
2. Definitions	167
3. Political Reasons for Regional Arrangements	169
4. The Political Impact of Regional Arrangements on International Relations	172
5. The Economics of Regional Integration	173
5.1. The Free-Trade Area, Customs Union, Common Market, Economic Union, and Political Union Compared	177
6. International Law on Free-Trade Areas	178
6.1. International Customary Law on Free-Trade Areas	179
6.2. Preparatory Work for the Havana Charter and the GATT	180
7. GATT Law on Free-Trade Areas	183
7.1. The Place of Article XXIV in the GATT	183
7.2. Article XXIV(4)	184
7.3. Article XXIV(5)	186
7.4. Article XXIV(7)	187
7.5. Article XXIV(8)(b)	187
7.6. Article XXIV(10)	189
8. Interpretation of the GATT Practice	189
9. Conclusion	191
6. Experiences of Other Free-Trade Areas in Dealing with Internal Trade Measures	194
1. Introduction	194
2. Provisions on Restrictive Business Practices (Competition)

Contained in Agreements of Free-Trade Areas	194
2.1. The European Free Trade Agreement, EFTA	195
2.2. The Free-Trade Agreements between the European Economic Community and the Member Countries of the European Free Trade Association	197
2.3. The European Economic Area, EEA	200
2.4. The So-Called Europe Agreements	205
2.5. The Australia-New Zealand Agreement for Closer Economic Relations	209
3. Provisions on Restrictive Business Practices in the Common Market of the EEC	215
3.1. The Functioning of the EEC Competition System Supplementing Anti-Dumping Actions	217
4. Conclusion	220

PART IV. PHASING OUT ANTI-DUMPING LAWS
WITHIN THE NAFTA

7. The Regulation of Restrictive Business Practices within the NAFTA	231
1. Introduction	231
2. Existing National Anti-Dumping Laws and their Similar Impact	231
2.1. Differences in the Determination of Injury	232
2.2. Differences in the Agencies Enforcing the Law	233
2.3. Legal Standing and Quasi-Judicial Process	233
2.4. Imposition of Duties	234
2.5. A Public Interest Clause	235
2.6. The Lesser Duty Principle	235
3. The NAFTA Binational Tribunal	235
3.1. Criteria for Judicial Review	236
4. New Provisions on Competition and Monopolies in the NAFTA	240
5. Proposals for Phasing Out Anti-Dumping Enforcement	243
6. Proposals for a System of Conflicts of Laws	245
6.1. The First Model: The Law of the Territory Where the Restrictive Business Take Place	246
6.2. The Second Model: Allocation of Jurisdiction Based on the Criterion of 33 per cent more of the Turnover of the Firms Concerned	246
7. Conclusion	247

8. Implementation of the Chosen Model for Regulation of Restrictive Business Practices within the NAFTA	253
1. Introduction	253
2. US, Canadian, and Mexican Domestic Legislation on Competition	254
2.1. Background and Policies of the Three Competition Laws	254
2.2. Standing, Procedure, Enforcement, Costs, and Delay	258
2.3. The Treatment of Price Discrimination	259
2.4. The Treatment of Predatory Pricing	261
2.5. Other Abusive Conduct by Firms with Market Power	263
2.6. Vertical Restraints	265
2.7. Horizontal Agreements	265
2.8. Joint Ventures and Mergers	266
2.9. Intellectual Property Rights	266
2.10. Conclusion on the Comparison of Domestic Laws	267
3. Application of the Models Proposed in Chapter 7	268
3.1. 'The Law of the Territory Where the Restrictive Practice Takes Place'	268
4. Amendments to Existing Competition and Anti-Trust Laws	271
5. Abolishing Export Cartels	273
6. Parallel Amendments to Anti-Dumping Laws	274
7. Proposals for a Transition Period	275
7.1. Regional or Product-by-Product Reduction of Duties	276
8. Conclusion	277
PART V. TOWARDS AN INTERNATIONAL CODE OF CONDUCT
9. Parameters, Issues, and Comments on an International Code on Competition	281
1. Introduction	281
2. Attempts to Move towards an International Code on Competition	282
3. New Proposals	283
3.1. The GATT Trade Report Mechanism	283
3.2. The American Bar Association	284
3.3. European Positive Comity	285
3.4. The Continuous Work of UNCTAD, the World Bank, and the OECD	286
3.5. The NAFTA Laboratory	287
3.6. US-Japan Structural Impediment Initiative, SII	287
4. Fundamental Social Differences	292

4.1. Anti-Trust vs. Competition	292
4.2. Industrial Policies	295
5. An International Code on Competition: General Issues and Proposals	297
5.1. Should the Agreement be Binding?	298
5.2. Rule of Reason or per se	298
5.3. Dominance vs. Market Power	299
5.4. Practices which Would Constitute 'Abusive' Behaviour	299
5.5. A Single Infraction of Abuse of a Dominant Position	300
5.6. The Best Institution: GATT, MTO, UNCTAD, OECD, or a New Forum?	301
6. Proposed Alternatives to Introduce Competition Considerations into International Trade Litigation	303
6.1. Private Positive Comity	303
6.2. The Non-Violation Procedure of the GATT	303
6.3. An ICSID Type of Tribunal	304
6.4. A NAFTA Type of Tribunal	305
7. Domaine Réservé	305
8. Conclusion	305
Conclusion	310
1. How do Anti-Dumping and Anti-Trust Provisions Interact within a Free-Trade Area	310
2. Does the Law Require Anti-Dumping Measures within Free-Trade Areas to be Phased Out?	311
3. How Should Anti-Dumping Measures be Phased Out within the NAFTA	312
4. Should (Could) Anti-Dumping Measures be Phased Out Multilaterally in Favour of an International Code on Competition	315
5. Concluding Comments	317
Bibliography	320
Index	329