

Surviving the Research Process in Politics

Edited by

Peter Burnham

PINTER

London and Washington

Contents

About the Contributors vii

Foreword by Robert G. Burgess ix

1 Introduction: Themes, Issues and Methods in Research Training
Peter Burnham 1

Part 1: The Social Organization of the Research Process

2 Investigating Methodologies: A Comparison of MA and PhD
Research Processes
Jonathan Gorry 15

3 Beginning Research: The First Year
Carla Koen 25

4 Research Design – ‘A Rough Guide’
Vered Bartov 35

5 The Second Year and How to Survive It
Ed Page 51

6 Changing Locations, Supervisors and Strategies
Ray Kiely 63

7 The Student–Supervisor Relationship
Nick Robinson 71

8 On Being a Teaching Assistant
John Williams 83

9 Juggling a Full-time Academic Post and a PhD
Nisha Malhan 95

10 A Very British PhD – a View from Overseas
Laura Tedesco 105

Part 2: Methods and Procedures in Qualitative Research

11 The Practice of Political Theory
Chris Woodard 117

12 Combining Disciplines: How to Build a Good Enough Bridge
Steven Smith 129

- 13 Border Crossings: Opportunities and Challenges in Comparative Research
Michael O'Neill 141
- 14 On the Record: An Introduction to Interviewing
Gail Stedward 151
- 15 Using Archives in Political Research
Rhiannon Vickers 167
- 16 Breaking Free Through the Use of Unusual Sources
Stephen Day 177
- 17 Surviving the Viva
Peter Burnham 193
- References 201
- Name Index 205
- Subject Index 207