

A 335847

GEORGE SCHÖPFLIN

Nations
Identity
Power

The New Politics of Europe

HURST & COMPANY, LONDON

CONTENTS

Preface and Acknowledgements	page v
X 1. Introduction: The Nature of the Beast	1
X Part 1. WHAT IS THE NATION?
2. Reason, Identity and Power	9
3. Civil Society, Ethnicity and the State: A Threefold Relationship	35
4. Citizenship, Ethnicity and Cultural Reproduction	51
5. Left and Right: Europe in the 1990s	66
6. Commemoration: Why Remember?	74
Part II. ETHNICITY AND CULTURAL REPRODUCTION
7. A Taxonomy of Myths and their Functions	79
8. Ideological Thinking and Post-Communism	99
X 9. Language and Ethnicity in Central and Eastern Europe: Some Theoretical Aspects	116
Part III. THE STATE, COMMUNISM AND POST-COMMUNISM
10. Cultural Diversity and Good Governance: Some General Considerations	128
11. Why Empires Fail	137
12. The Communist Experience and Nationhood	147
13. An Analysis of Post-Communism	170
14. The Rise of Anti-Democratic Movements	189
15. Communism and State Legitimation	208
16. Culling Sacred Cows? State Frontiers and Stability	221
Part IV. MINORITIES
17. The Problem of Ethnic Minorities in Central and Eastern Europe	231

18.	Minorities under Communism	241
X19.	Ethnic Minorities in South-Eastern Europe	253
√20.	Minorities and Post-Communism: a Political and Sociological Analysis	277

Part V. THE ETHNIC FACTOR RECONSIDERED

√21.	Englishness: Citizenship, Ethnicity and Class	298
X22.	Yugoslavia: State Construction and State Failure	324
X23.	Power, Ethnicity and Communism in Yugoslavia	343
24.	Hungary as Kin-State	370
25.	Hungary and its Neighbours	378
26.	Inter-Ethnic Relations in Transylvania: Rhetoric and Reality	410
27.	Human Rights and the Nationality Question in Romania	415
	Index	435