

A 335880

Self and Nation:
Categorization, Contestation and Mobilization

Steve Reicher and Nick Hopkins

SAGE Publications
London • Thousand Oaks • New Delhi

Contents

Preface	vii
(y) 1 The National Question	1
Psychology in a world of nations	1
Defining issues	7
Nation, imagination and contestation	14
Conclusion	25
× 2 Psychology and Nationhood	28
→ On the character of nations	28
Social identity in social psychology	32
Social identity in practice	44
→ Conclusion: social identity and the nation	50
(y) 3 Nation and Mobilization	53
Invoking the nation	53
Nations and others: identifying the other	62
Non-national politics	68
Conclusion	75
4 National Identity and International Relations	77
→ National identification and intergroup relations	77
→ National values and international relations	85
Metaphors and relations	92
Conclusion	98
× 5 In Quest of National Character	100
A singular quest	100
→ Forming the national character	104
Covering the tracks	110
Conclusion	129
6 Lessons in National History	131
Heroes	131
→ Identity and history	138
Conclusion	150

x	7 Representing the National Community	152
	Titles and entitlement	152
	Drawing the boundaries	154
	Representatives and representation	167
	Conclusion	179
	8 Changing Categories and Changing Contexts	181
	New categories for new contexts	181
	Category shifts	188
	Conclusion	201
x	9 Nationalist Psychology and the Psychology of Nationhood	204
	A choice of sides	204
	Psychology in the service of nationalism	205
	Psychology and the analysis of nationhood	216
	Conclusion	222
	References	223
	Author Index	235
	Subject Index	239