

A 388494

diuga
Rp
2585

Writing Women in Central America

Gender and the Fictionalization of History

Laura Barbas-Rhoden
✓

Ohio University Research in International Studies

Latin America Series No. 41

Ohio University Press

Athens

(2003)

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	“Disrupting the Thread”: Dominant Narratives and the Works of Central American Women	1
1.	Awakening Women in Central America: Claribel Alegría’s Fictions	15
2.	The Quest for the Mother: Women and Memory in the Novels of Gioconda Belli	48
3.	Asking Other Questions: Personal Stories and Historical Events in the Fiction of Rosario Aguilar	80
4.	“Local Histories and Global Designs” in Tatiana Lobo’s Narratives	121
Conclusion	Where Now? History and the Present	162
Appendix	Central American Women Writers: A Bibliographical Study	167
Notes		177
Bibliography		185
Index		197